May Ask Ruling On Liquor Buyer's Status

DRY CRUSADER FEARS EFFECT OF LAW CHANGE

Head of Anti-Saloon League
Says Sheppard Bill May Not Work Out

MIGHT HAMPER COURTS Conviction Must Depend Upon Buyer, McBride Says in Statement

BULLETIN
Washington—(AP)—The department of justice has under consideration the question of whether the supreme court to determine whether the purchaser of illegal liquor is equally liable with the seller to prosecution.

Washington—(AP)—F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, in a statement today said it was an open question whether the Sheppard bill to make buyers of liquor equally guilty with sellers would help enforcement.

Many dries are persuaded that it would be a hindrance rather than a help," he said. "Rarely is a sale of liquor made in the presence of a third party. The conviction of a seller must almost invariably depend upon the testimony of the buyer. To accomplish the conviction of the buyer it would be necessary to grant immunity to the seller."

"He added the measure had not been considered formally by either the executive or administrative committees of the league, but it appeared to him the importance of the matter had been exaggerated.

"The effect on the enforcement of prohibition would be very slight," he continued. "The real issue between the wets and the dries is prohibition and its enforcement. To back up the prohibition in its enforcement by making the program should be the goal of the dries."

LEGAL SAFEGUARD

"The fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States provides no person shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself. To grant immunity to the seller in order to get the buyer would be of doubtful wisdom. It would seem therefore that this proposed legislation can wisely wait until the lawyers in congress thrash out fully its import.

"Such legislation has already been tried and repealed in one of two states. Many dries believed to be harmful. Besides the present statutes as to possession, transportation, conspiracy and also as to buying and selling particularly under permit would doubtless prove just as effective as the proposed amendment."

SHEPPARD'S STATEMENT

Sheppard, in a statement, said he would ask Attorney General Mitchell to "investigate an inquiry into a view to seeing if a policy of enforcement against the purchaser of liquor for beverage purposes may be instituted under Section Six."

The Texas said a recent decision of a Kentucky federal judge who instructed a grand jury to return indictments under the section, might "result in the punishment of such buyers under existing law if sustained by the highest court," but he added that all question ought to be removed.

"No one can escape the proposition," he said, "that the buyer of intoxicating liquor is equally guilty with the seller, if the liquor traffic is to be considered a crime."

Sheppard recently proposed an amendment to the act which would provide prosecution for the buyer of liquor.

SEE MURDER AND SUICIDE IN HOTEL ROOM TRAGEDY

Wallingford, Conn.—(AP)—Police were convinced today that Mrs. Anna Bryan Ayres, advertising expert, had been shot to death by William Gaylord a bookkeeper, who then killed himself. Their bodies were found yesterday in a room at an inn.

Mrs. Ayres, 41, was the divorced wife of Ernest Ayres, former American professor, and mother of three children. Her home was in West Haven, Gaylord, 46, lived in East Hartford.

The bodies with bullet wounds in wounds in their temples, were found by Robert Hyatt, manager of the inn, who broke down the door of the room after repeated efforts to get an answer from the couple failed.

HUNT FOR BANDITS WHO TOOK $1,500 IN GEMS

Milwaukee—(AP)—A $1,500 jewel robbery drew the attention of police today as they sought to link the men who perpetrated it with a series of restaurant and store holdups.

The men entered the store of Gilbert F. Umbs, bound him to a back room chair with his own belt, gagged him with an apron and looted the place.

Water Boy Ousted By Nadir Khan

Victorious Leader Reported
New Emir of Afghanistan
as Kabul Falls

Tarnez, Soviet Turkistan—(AP)—There was a new crowned head in Afghanistan today. Advice to this border city from Kabul indicated that Bacha Sakao, "water boy of the north," who made himself king after Amanullah's abdication, had bowed to defeat and adversity.

The new ruler is Nadir Khan, a former supporter of Amanullah, and leader of victorious Afghan troops in their drive to recapture Kabul from the usurper, Bacha Sakao. Nadir became emir in a Kabul ceremony yesterday.

Amanullah, living in exile at Rome, expressed a willingness to return to his old throne when he was informed of Nadir's capture of Kabul, but opined that Nadir might want the throne for himself. He offered, if denied the crown again, to serve Nadir as ambassador at Rome.

Amanullah's fall followed a European tour in 1923 from which he returned fired with ambition to modernize his country much as Mustafa Kemal Pasha has done in Turkey. His reforms brought considerable opposition and he was forced to flee for his life with his retinue, abdicating in favor of his brother, Inayatullah.

The brother also proved incapable to the Afghan tribesmen who made their own fellow, Bacha Sakao, king under the title Habibullah Khan. For a time he firmly entrenched himself at Kabul, but as his opposition grew he was driven from Kabul by airplane.

A Peshawar, India, dispatch to the London Daily Mail said Habibullah had fled to the Hindu Kush mountains and was holding there as hostages for his safety the wife and other relatives of Nadir and Ashadullah Khan, 20-year-old brother of Amanullah.

The dispatch made no mention of crowning Nadir as emir, and on the contrary said few Afghans would acquiesce in the sacrifice of Ashadullah by a movement against Habibullah, since Ashadullah's claim to the throne was supported generally.

CONFIRM REPORT

Simla, India—(AP)—Confirmation of the fall of Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, before the troops of Nadir Khan was received today in a wireless message to Simla which also announced the flight of Habibullah, who took the throne after Amanullah had been deposed.

HUNT MAN AFTER HE FORFEITS HIS BOND

Ashland—(AP)—A "roundup" of robbery gang members was temporarily at a halt while county authorities carried on a search for M. G. McNamara, merchant of Draper and Mellon, who forfeited a $2,000 bond by failure to appear in court. He was charged with participating in a store robbery at Mellon, where merchandise valued at $5,000 was stolen. District Attorney C. A. Johnson ordered an immediate search for the missing man, one of six taken into custody.

McNamara was reputed to be the "brains" of the robbery gang operating in this district. According to the police, while McNamara pretended friendship for his next-door neighbor, William A. Bongumill, he espoused the role of Jekyll-Hyde and at night looted his friend's store.

President Among Hardest Workers In Public Office

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1929 by Post Pub. Co.
New York—President Hoover's unexpected trip to the fifth world series ball game may have been put down to a passing fancy for the national game. In reality it was an effort to get away from the nerve-racking responsibilities of the presidential office and get some recreation.

Although comparisons are valueless, because each presidential personality differs from the other, nevertheless it is a fact that Herbert Hoover is one of the hardest working men in Washington has ever seen in public office. Ever since inauguration he has been painstakingly at his job, morning, noon and night. And the climax of the strain came when the British prime minister arrived for the momentous conferences that are to shape American foreign policy for a generation.

Mr. Hoover plays medicine ball early in the morning as a bit of exercise and goes to his fishing camp on weekends but he always has so many people around him that it is doubtful whether he gets the maximum relaxation out of his so-called play hours. The Hoovers entertain their friends rather regularly, still it is a rare host who will not admit that social functions aren't somewhat of a strain to a tired executive.

President Wilson used to seek absolute seclusion. He tried to get away from people out of business hours as much as possible. For this he was criticized. He rarely had officials to lunch or dinner. He kept those hours for his family and those who were not likely to talk shop. Mr. Hoover will never be criticized for being too busy.

SHEARER NOTE IS TRACED TO IRISH SATIRE

New York Newspaper Says
Doctor Admitted He Wrote
"Secret Document"

New York—(AP)—The New York Sun says today that Dr. William M. A. Maloney, specialist in nervous diseases, is on record as admitting authorship of the satire on British propaganda in the United States, which is said to be the basis of the "Secret British document" submitted by William E. Shearer to the senate committee investigating the activities of American shipbuilders at the 1921 Geneva Naval conference.

The Sun says that in an article in the Irish Press of Philadelphia on July 23, 1921, Dr. Maloney said that he wrote the pamphlet, "The Reconquest of America." The pamphlet appeared in June, 1919, and purported to be a reprint of a paper found in the street in front of an apartment house in this city in which Sir William Wiseman, once chief of the British secret service in America, had lived. The pretended document bore no signature, but it appeared to be a report made by a British agent in America to Lloyd George then British prime minister.

DOCTOR SILENT

Published reports had said that Daniel F. Conahan, former state supreme court justice and now counsel for Shearer, had collaborated with Dr. Maloney in preparing the document, but Conahan denied the report as "rotten." Dr. Maloney, who served in the British army and holds the British military cross, declined to discuss the reports.

Some passages in the text of the pamphlet indicated that it was not to be taken too seriously, particularly one in which it was asserted that the work of turning Americans into "loyal subjects of his majesty" had reached a stage where success was assured in 10 per cent of the cases on which it was attempted.

The Sun quotes Dr. Maloney as writing in 1921:

"On June 10, 1919, I published a satire entitled: 'The Reconquest of America,' designed to defeat the league of nations. It was printed and published by the printers of the friends of Irish freedom."

PORT WASHINGTON SITE OF HUGE POWER PLANT

Milwaukee—(AP)—A $25,000,000 power plant is planned by the Milwaukee Electric company at Port Washington.

The project involves initial expenditures of $8,000,000 with the first installation having a capacity of 60,000 to 75,000 kilowatts, ultimately to be increased to 300,000.

The company proposes to purchase the Port Washington municipal distribution, S. B. Way, vice-president, said. He asserted that its rates are substantially lower than those of the city plant.

"The growth of industry, particularly on the north side of Milwaukee, requires a constantly increasing electric generating capacity," he said.

CLAIMS HE FOUND RUINS CREDITED TO LINDBERGH

Mexico City—(AP)—Alvaro Moreno Trablen, Yucatan explorer, today declared that Mayan ruins explored by C. L. Charles A. Lindbergh on recent flights over Yucatan, Quintana Roo and British Honduras were first discovered by exploring parties in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

The explorer's claim was contained in letters which he forwarded to President Portes Gil and to the local newspapers.

Garfield May Head Land Commission

Hoover Favors Son of Former President for Proposed Federal Body

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover is understood to have decided upon Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, as chairman of the prospective commission to study the advisability of turning over surface rights of federal lands to the several states.

Garfield is a son of the former president. He was United States federal administrator under President Wilson at the same time that Mr. Hoover was food administrator.

The personnel of the commission is expected to be made public within less than a week. It is known definitely that the commission will include no members of congress.

The work of the commission as well as the men who will serve on it was discussed in some detail last night by the president with a group of western congressmen and officials from the interior department.

The problem was talked over after a dinner to which Secretary Wilbur, Assistant Secretary Dixon and Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, all of the interior department, Senators McNary of Oregon, Thomas of Idaho, and Nye of North Dakota, and Representatives Smith of Idaho, Colton of Utah and Leavitt of Montana, were invited.

Beet Sugar Group Spent $70,000 Yearly On Lobby

Association's Secretary Tells
Senate Committee About
Activities

Washington—(AP)—An annual expenditure of $70,000 by the United States Beet Sugar association with headquarters in Washington was listed today before the senate lobby committee by H. A. Austin, secretary and treasurer of the organization.

Appearing as a witness at the committee's second day of inquiry into reports, of efforts to influence congress in drafting the tariff bill, he testified that during the first nine months of this year the association had expended approximately $56,000 and that of this much had been contributed to publications and pamphlets relating to sugar production.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, asked if "the real purpose" of the publications was not to spread the idea of a high tariff, but Austin insisted this was "only incidental."

The witness also said a number of "press releases" had been sent to Washington newspaper correspondents and to newspapers throughout the country.

It was estimated by Austin that 90 per cent of the sugar production in the country was represented in the association.

Before turning to the sugar tariff lobby, the committee recalled Frederick L. Koch, tariff commission expert, to ask if the pottery industry had protested his testimony at a secret hearing of the Republican members of the house ways and means committee when that group was framing the tariff bill. Koch said he understood William Burgess, tariff advisor of the United States Pottery association had done so but this questioning was not pursued at any length, the committee calling Austin shortly after it met.

Austin testified he did not employ any newspaper writers to prepare "press releases," most of which he believed went into the waste baskets.

"I think I am all bunk to try and get things like that in the papers," he said with a smile.

THREE MEN INJURED IN STREET CAR CRASH

Milwaukee—(AP)—Three men were out and bruised and 150 other street car passengers were shaken when two cars collided at Center and 17th streets here this morning.

A two car train of the 12th-st. line, south bound, struck a west bound Center-st car broadside, knocking the latter from the tracks.

The motorman on the 12th-st car threw the controller into reverse but the car failed to stop in time to avoid a crash. Traffic on both lines was tied up for more than a half hour by the collision.

FALL CONSULTED ON LEASES, BAIN SAYS

Former Mines Bureau Director Says Ex-secretary Insisted on Final O. K.

Washington—(AP)—H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines in the Harding administration, testified today that Albert B. Fall had left his subordinates in the interior department understand that no final oil leases could be negotiated without his approval and that the Elk Hills and Pearl Harbor proposition had been submitted to him.

He said the Elk Hills-Pearl Harbor papers were sent to Fall at his New Mexico ranch by E. C. Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior.

The witness testified he had told Fall the Pan-American Petroleum and Transportation company was the only firm which would bid on the whole contract. This, he said, was before Fall left Washington several days prior to the opening of bids.

BLAMES TRAMPS FOR $25,000 FARM FIRE

Fond du Lac—(AP)—Fire destroyed three buildings and 11 head of livestock on the farm of Oscar Averbek near here last night, causing a loss of about $25,000.

Averbek believed the blaze was of incendiary origin, blaming tramps who had been sleeping in the hayloft of a large barn. The loss was partly covered by insurance. The Van Dyne fire department saved the farm residence.

GARFIELD MAY HEAD LAND COMMISSION

Hoover Favors Son of Former President for Proposed Federal Body

ARMS PARLEY NOW CERTAIN FOR 5 NATIONS

France, Italy and Japan to Join United States and Great Britain

BULLETIN
Washington—(AP)—Italian Ambassador de Martino today informed Secretary Stimson that his government had gladly and unconditionally accepted the British invitation to the five-power naval conference in London in January.

BULLETIN
London—(AP)—Japan's reply, accepting the British invitation to a five-power naval conference early next year, was handed to the foreign office today.

Paris—(AP)—The French government today forwarded its acceptance to London of the British government's invitation to join in a naval conference in London in January. The text of the acceptance will be released tonight for publication.

The acceptance was brief as to text, the foreign office told the Associated Press today, and does not enter into any discussion of substance of the naval problems to be discussed at the London conference.

It was said France does not believe that in the reply she should inaugurate an elaborate exposition of her views on various questions. The reply, however, will contain certain general references to France's naval position.

The text of the Italian acceptance, which reached official quarters this forenoon created considerable interest because it seemed to indicate Italy adhered to a position she has outlined often at Geneva, and elsewhere, that is, that Italy will consent to limit downward Italian military forces so long as they are kept the equivalent of any other on the continent.

The French government, deciding to avoid the discussion of controversial points, was able to frame its answer possibly quicker than had been anticipated, although M. Briand, premier, still has to study and possibly modify before actually forwarding to London.

PROBE DEATH OF WOMAN ARTIST IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—A 66-year-old woman artist lay near death in a Milwaukee hospital today while police sought to determine whether her injuries were self-inflicted or were the result of a brutal attack.

Mrs. Alice J. Carothers, widow of a once prominent Milwaukee businessman, was given little chance to recover. Police, heading the importunities of neighbors who had not seen her for two days, broke into her Milwaukee apartment last night.

Forced to remove several doors, after entering through windows, they found her body wedged into a corner of the bathroom. On her head were bloody wounds, apparently inflicted several days ago. She was unconscious.

Mrs. Carothers, who is known as a talented amateur painter, lived alone in the apartment, in which there were many pictures painted by herself.

BANK BANDITS NABBED 3 HOURS AFTER HOLDUP

Paynesville, Minn.—(AP)—Three hours after they had held up and robbed the State Bank of Mayers Grove of $150 today, Leo Humbert and Joe Hendricks, who sawed their way out of jail at St. Cloud four days ago, were captured in a woods near here.

Experts Scan Activities Of Enforcement Officers

Washington—(AP)—Under the authority of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, two prominent legal experts will conduct a survey of lawlessness among government officials charged with enforcing prohibition and other federal statutes.

Professor Zechariah Chafee of the Harvard Law school, and Walter N. Pollak of New York city, who served as a special assistant attorney general in the prosecution of Nicky Arnin, have been delegated by the commission to take over this phase of its work.

Announcement of these appointments, the commission, which is holding a session of several days at its headquarters here, withheld public information as to the details of the activities for which Chafee and Pollak were appointed, but its announcement was regarded as evidence of a decision to face this problem squarely and give it adequate consideration as an important part of its general task.

Although the inquiry given over to the two experts is not restricted to prohibition but includes lawlessness in the enforcement of all federal statutes, it was considered a foregone conclusion that they would devote most of their time to the field of the Volstead law. The activities of prohibition agents, the coast guard and border patrols are expected to undergo a careful scrutiny, the purpose of which will be the determination of the extent of lawlessness among these agencies.

That Pollak and Chafee intend to begin their work at the earliest possible time was indicated by an announcement that the former left yesterday.

Shawano Man Acquitted In Fatal Crash

John Johnson, Shawano, was acquitted by a jury in circuit court yesterday afternoon of a charge of manslaughter in the fourth degree. The case went to the jury shortly after noon. Returning from dinner, the jury deliberated for about three quarters of an hour and finally returned a verdict of not guilty.

The Shawano man was charged with negligent driving and causing the accident on S. Cherry-st on Saturday, Aug. 10, when Eugene Dachelet, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dachelet, 719 W. Fourth-st., was killed.

Johnson, driving north, turned to the left to enter a filling station. His car was struck by a machine said to have been driven by Rudolph Dessort, 724 W. Third-st. Dessort's machine tipped over and the Dachelet boy was thrown through a window and crushed when the car fell on him.

The defense maintained that Rudolph Dessort was not driving the car when the accident occurred, but that a younger sister was driving. Dessort and his sister, however, both testified that he was driving.

AGED WOMAN KILLS MATE OF 49 YEARS

Couldn't Endure His Abuses
Any Longer, She Tells
Police Officer

Summit, N. J.—(AP)—Mrs. Laura Mathilda Titus, white haired and wrinkled by 70 years of life, today killed her husband with an ax. The victim, James Titus, married her 49 years ago.

Mrs. Titus confessed the killing to police after brief questioning. The woman, weighing little more than 100 pounds and hard of hearing, said she slew her husband because "she couldn't endure any longer his abuses. He drank heavily, she said and was intoxicated this morning when she struck him twice with an ax."

About 3:45 a. m., she said, in her confession to Police Chief John P. Murphy, her husband got up and went into the yard. He returned about a half hour later and asked her when she was going to get up, pulled the bed covers off her and went down stairs.

Shortly after Mrs. Titus got up and went downstairs where she found her husband lying on the floor of the living room. She sat down at a writing desk where she could watch the prostrate form of her husband and debated with herself whether she should kill the man whom she married in Milltown in 1830.

Then she went into the yard and got the ax, the woman told. Upon her return to the house she laid the weapon down and picked it up twice before she struck her husband.

Her next move was to call neighbors, who in turn notified a physician and police.

Mrs. Titus had lived with her husband in Summit for more than 30 years. He had been employed by a local ice company until a few years ago when he was pensioned.

Detroit—(AP)—Coast guards reported today they were fired on shortly after 4:30 a. m. after they had seized a beer laden rowboat and arrested its alleged owner at Grassy Island, opposite Wyandotte in the Detroit river.

HOOPER'S MESSAGE

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover today sent a telegram to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald expressing the conviction that the welcome accorded the British statesman in this country "is an earnest of the gratification in this country that the peoples of Great Britain and the United States have been brought even closer together by your visit."

The president's message was sent in response to a telegram received from Mr. MacDonald yesterday just as he was leaving the United States for Canada.

"I only express the feelings of the people of this country," Mr. Hoover said, "when I say that we were all grateful for the opportunity of manifesting our sincere appreciation of the spirit in which you came to us."

"The welcome you have received is an earnest of the gratification felt in this country that the peoples of Great Britain and the United States have been brought even closer together by your visit. Mr. Hoover also joins me in thanking you and we both send our best wishes for a pleasant visit in Canada and a good voyage home."

A. F. L. HEARS HIM DESCRIBE WAR HORRORS

"You Have to Pay Debts of War in Fullness of
Time," Premier Says

GETS HOOVER MESSAGE
President Wires "Peoples
Brought Closer Together
by Your Visit"

Toronto—(AP)—Down a human lane of applauding and cheering delegates, Ramsay MacDonald today entered the convention hall of American Federation of Labor.

Accompanied by his daughter Isabel and escorted by a committee of labor leaders the premier of Great Britain and the leader of England's labor party received a thunderous welcome as he entered the hall and mounted the platform to be greeted by William Green, federation president.

"No more warm-hearted reception has come to him than you give here," President Green stated. His address of welcome but he was halted by a storm of applause. Continuing he hailed the visit of the premier as "an unique occasion" and said that labor's sympathies were with Mr. MacDonald's efforts to "mobilize the agencies of peace."

"He's among true friends here today," Green concluded. "We knew him in the old days, as the chief of the Labor party; we know him today as the spokesman of Great Britain. It affords me the great honor to present to you the Honorable Ramsay MacDonald, premier of Great Britain."

Cheering, the audience came to its feet, and held the premier's acknowledgement back for minutes while the hall resounded.

"I had to modify some arrangements to come here," Mr. MacDonald said. "I have been introduced to you in the name of the great office I hold, but I want you to feel that prime minister or not, I am still the old workman I was born."

"The workman is distinguished by his mentality and the point of view he has," he continued. "In Great Britain I am a party man. Here today, my friends, I do not represent a party; I represent a whole nation. I have come across the Atlantic as he who for the moment is charged to represent the opinion, the unity, the personality of the house of commons."

"On our side, labor is working out a policy by evolutionary means," he said. "The revolution we believe is the revolution of the ballot box. You can make no permanent changes in the construction of nations unless you appeal to the sound moral sense."

"You have to pay the debts of war in the fullness of time," he declared. "All classes have to share the sacrifice in war. But taken in the mass, labor bears the burden. If there had been another war, the sacrifices and pains of labor would be definitely greater than in past wars. In the war death would be dealt out not only on the battlefields, it will be dealt out from the bottom of the seas and the heights of the heavens. The civilian population will drop down in the streets and die from mysterious attacks of poison. It is the worker's fireside, the worker's wife and children that come first, that bear the companionship when I think of war."

COMES AS OLD FRIEND

"I come to you as an old friend; as the leader of the Labor party in the house of commons called to a broader field as one who has gone to a neighboring country to establish understanding. As one who has sought to try to close some chapters of historical misunderstanding I have sought to get the support of labor in the United States and Canada in the endeavor to widen the area of understanding. I shall take this meeting as one memory to take away with greater appreciation."

Many Candidates Want U. S. Jobs At Arms Parley

STIMSON MAY HEAD GROUP AT CONCLAVE

Hoover Also Has Long List of Possible Delegates to London in January

Washington—(AP)—One of the longest lists of candidates that has confronted President Hoover is that of the prospects in the state department for posts in the American delegation to the naval parley in London in January.

Since the naval conference became a certainty, the important affairs handled by the state department have been interspersed with the one question which appears to interest everyone in the department: "Are you going to the arms conference?"

While there have been no indications from the White House regarding the composition of the American commission, the name of Secretary Stimson is the one most mentioned in connection with the position of chief delegate. To assist him, of course, there would be Ambassador Davies, who conducted with Prime Minister MacDonald in London the initial negotiations which culminated in the signing of the conference, and Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, who has represented the United States at previous arms conferences.

One of the most important members of such a delegation, yet one of whom little is heard or written, is the one who serves somewhat as a chief coordinator does in a large firm, holding the organization well together and seeing to it that its functions are well carried out. Actually, this official is the working assistant of the chief delegate.

TWO MEN AVAILABLE
Two persons have been most prominently mentioned for this position, J. T. Murrin, chief of the western European division of the state department, who has intimately followed the London negotiations, and Pierre Boal, assistant chief of the division, who has also worked closely with Secretary Stimson and Joseph P. Cotton, the under-secretary of state in the London negotiations.

Under Secretary Cotton is one of the few officials who have been dealing with the negotiations, who has held himself completely aloof from all speculation as to the membership of the commission. It is believed that if President Hoover chooses Secretary Stimson to head the American commission he would prefer that the Under-Secretary remain in Washington for the long consultations which will be necessary between the state department, navy department and White House during the parley. For the same reason, it is believed that the president would assign both Murrin and Boal to the delegation.

Edward C. Wynne, assistant to the historical adviser and Michael J. McDermott, chief of the division of current information, are also talked of as likely candidates for posts, the former to deal with the collection of the historical data on the conference and the latter to organize and coordinate the relations of the delegation with the press.

The delegation will also include an equally important contingent from the navy department. Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, and Commander H. C. Train, both of whom were in constant touch with the president during the London negotiations, are expected to be included.

HAUL DIRT TO FILL IN WILSON GROUNDS

Approximately 900 yards of dirt, removed from the basement excavated for the new Lethen Grain company building on W. College-ave., west of the M. Badger-ave. intersection, has been used to fill in the hollow north of Wilson Junior high school grounds. The land is being leveled off and grass is to be planted there. The land north of the school was about a foot and one half lower than that on which the school stands, according to M. H. Small, principal.

Continued fair weather is expected in this section tonight and Thursday, with probably frost tonight, followed by warmer Thursday.

PAPER FIRM PLANE CARRIES JURY TO SEE DISPUTED AREA

Wisconsin Rapids—(AP)—A jury and attorneys took to the air yesterday to see, instead of hear, evidence in a lawsuit.

With the roaring of three motors in their cars, they flew slowly over two farms along the Wisconsin river near Port Edwards, in a plane furnished by the defendant.

The Nekosco-Edwards Paper company was sued by William H. J. B. and Lillie B. Weber, who claimed damages to their property by water backed up by the splash boards of the Nekosco dam.

At the company's suggestion and with the circuit judge's approval, the flight was undertaken so that the jury might compute the extent of the overflow, if any.

JEW TO OBSERVE SEASON OF THANKS STARTING FRIDAY

Observe Feast of Tabernacles to Commemorate Thanksgiving Season

The week beginning Friday evening will usher in the Jewish celebration of the Feast of Tabernacles, called in Hebrew Sukkoth. The festival is one of the three significant occasions mentioned in the Jewish Bible during which the Jews of old made pilgrimages to the Temple of Jerusalem.

Special services are to be conducted here at Jewish churches. It differs in its liturgical ceremonies and general celebration from the other festivals of the Jewish calendar in that it chiefly expresses the urge to nature. With this message of nature as its prime emphasis the Feast of Tabernacles marks the Jewish Thanksgiving Day.

In ancient days, when the Jews were tillers of the soil in Palestine, the background and motive of the Feast of Tabernacles were purely agricultural. At this time of the year the Jews in Palestine gathered their fruit. To commemorate this season, the festival of the feast, which lasted seven days, a Thanksgiving to God for the fruit harvest.

But since the season marked the end of the agricultural year, the festival was, likewise, a general Thanksgiving for the blessings of nature which God had bestowed upon the people throughout the year. For this reason, the people gathered at the local synagogues on Sukkoth, and offered sacrifices there.

Chicago—(AP)—Peter P. Croarkin, formerly a flour broker, who spent a large part of his fortune in a futile effort to save his son Harold from going to prison for murder, was buried yesterday. The son sat alone in his Joliet penitentiary cell while services were held here for his father. Harold Croarkin is serving a life sentence for the murder in December, 1926, of six-year-old Walter Schmitt.

Escanaba, Mich.—(AP)—An impressive ceremony at which 50 women received the decoration of chivalry climaxed the opening session yesterday of the Michigan Grand lodge of the I. O. O. F. and the Rebekah assembly.

Business sessions were programed for today, with a grand ball in the evening. The announcement of the next convention city and the new officers of both organizations will be made Thursday.

CULT PRIESTESS TO FACE COURT IN SUIT

Is Held in Jail on Default of $70,000 on Grand Theft Charges

Los Angeles—(AP)—Mrs. Otis Blackburn, high priestess of the "Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Eleventh," was held in jail today on default of $70,000 bail for trial in superior court on 12 counts of grand theft brought by Clifford Dabney, wealthy oil operator and former member of the religious cult.

Mrs. Ruth Welland-Rizzo, daughter of Mrs. Blackburn and second priestess of the organization, was released yesterday and a municipal court judge ruled the evidence against her was insufficient to warrant action.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rhoads, cult members held in connection with the death of Willa Rhoads, their foster daughter, were released on orders of Captain Ray Cato, police investigator. Cato said there was no evidence tending to show that the girl, whose death was concealed for three years, died of unnatural causes.

The cult came under fire of city and county authorities recently when Dabney filed charges that Mrs. Blackburn and her daughter mulcted him of nearly $10,000 for publication of "The Sixth Seal," a cult book under preparation, which they asserted would reveal all the secrets of nature, including the location of precious minerals.

The investigations were intensified with the discovery of Willa Rhoads' body buried beneath the flooring of the Rhoads' home. The couple said they concealed the girl's death after she died of diphtheria because Mrs. Blackburn said she would arise.

MARTIAL LAW NEARING END IN TEXAS AREA

City and County Administrations Being Revamped to Meet State Demands

Borger, Texas—(AP)—Well on its way to complete renovation of its city and county administrations demanded by Gov. Dan Moody, Borger expected definite word today as to when the troops which have enforced its laws and administered its courts since declaration of martial law will be replaced by newly appointed civil officers.

Two-thirds of the city commission was replaced yesterday by men approved by District Attorney Clem Calhoun when W. A. Henderson, hotel owner, was elected mayor by the two remaining members of the old commission, and Dyke Cullum, automobile dealer, was selected to replace Commissioner J. W. Crabtree, who resigned as soon as Henderson was elected.

Calhoun, who came here as Governor Moody's representative to investigate the assassination Sept. 13 of District Attorney John A. Holmes, and who stayed to assume Holmes' office, approved Henderson and Cullum today on the condition that they promise not to seek reelection.

Investigators have coupled their charge that an entrenched criminal ring was responsible for Borger's lawlessness with their demand that city and county officials resign. Calhoun's insistence that the new administration promise to leave office at the end of its term was regarded as a move to prevent the formation of another criminal organization.

OTHER OFFICES VACANT

Several offices still await the appointment of approved men to fill them, three business men were nominated for the city commission to succeed J. E. Higgins, the only member of the old commission not replaced. Calhoun announced last night that Albert Mace, former state ranger and one time sheriff at Lampasas, had been offered the office of chief of police. Mace helped Mexico police in 1922 after martial law was lifted there.

The county was slower in replacing the members of the old regime who resigned. It was thought a state ranger would replace Sheriff Joe Ownbey. Ranger Sergeant J. B. Wheatley has acted as Sheriff since martial law was suspended.

At least two officers will retain their posts; General Jacob Wolters announced last night. Constable Reeves and Justice of the Peace Miller at the county seat, Sisseton, are to be restored to office when martial law is lifted.

LEWIS STONE, SCREEN STAR, GETS DIVORCE

Los Angeles—(AP)—Lewis Stone, motion picture star, today became a member of Hollywood's divorce colony.

Stone was granted a divorce from Florence Prayer Stone, known on the stage as Florence Oakley, is superior court yesterday. In his petition he charged that in his wife's treatment of him during the last three years had caused him to suffer from extreme nervousness.

"Has your wife's mistreatment of you continued without interruption?" asked the court.

"Every day for three years," replied the plaintiff. "She would pat me with one hand, and slap me with the other."

Mrs. Stone did not appear in court. The Stones were married in 1920.

Fall Bars Doctor

Personal enmity that dates back to 1919 when President Woodrow Wilson lay ill in the White House caused ex-Secretary Albert B. Fall, now reported ill as he faces trial for bribery at Washington, to refuse to permit Dr. Sterling Ruffin, above, to examine him at the court's order. Dr. Ruffin, then one of Wilson's physicians and Fall, then a senator, are said to have had words when Fall, as a member of the Senate committee appointed to investigate the president's health, drew the bedclothes from the patient. In 1924, when Fall was reported too ill for trial, Dr. Ruffin examined him and pronounced him able to face court.

Latest Teaching Methods to Be Demonstrated at Kaukauna Meeting

MAPLE LEAF RURAL SCHOOL LEADS IN HEALTH LAST MONTH

Scores 180 Points in Contest to Take First Place in September

Maple Leaf school, town of Liberty, which scored 180 points in the county rural school health habit contest for September, led the schools of the county, according to a report prepared by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. Miss Ruth Cousins is the teacher.

High Ridge school, town of Greenville, with Miss Marie Tremml teacher, scored 166 points for second place, while Highland school, town of Freedom, Miss Sadie Banker, teacher, with 160 points, placed third.

Under the system introduced this fall by Miss Klein, schools are graded on various items which go to make up a healthy institution. Among these are: The number of pupils each day; the number of diseases contracted by students; the number of students taking regular baths; the number brushing their teeth every day; the number who come to school daily with clean hands and faces and handkerchiefs; the number playing out of doors regularly; the number not eating sweets between meals; the number not drinking tea or coffee; the number who maintain their correct weight.

For complying with these regulations each school receive a certain number of points. The school also may score by maintaining even temperatures in the school room; keeping windows open; keeping floors and lavatories clean.

Each month the teachers submit to Miss Klein a detailed report of the activities of their schools on each item during the previous month. The schools are then graded.

Students in schools maintaining a certain average throughout the year will be rewarded at the end of the year. Following are the names of the schools with the record made by each and the teacher:

Barnyard Controversy In Milwaukee Council Meet

Milwaukee—(AP)—Dr. J. P. Koehler, city health commissioner, today was more or less inclined to admit the impossibility of keeping roosters 200 feet away from hens.

Several weeks ago a few residents complained of restless night—attributing this uncomfortable condition to the roosters which have little regard as to when they should start their crowing. Dr. Koehler investigated, found the facts warranted an ordinance regulating not only roosters but also pigeons, ducks, geese and other domestic fowls.

But his plans came back in the form of a boomerang at the common council's public utilities and health committee hearing last night. Half a dozen pigeon and chicken breeders appeared in defense of their fowl.

That portion of the proposed ordinance which is intended to keep the rooster 200 feet away from hens was unflinchingly labeled "impossible" by the fanciers. You can't expect good eggs and plump springers on the platter with an absent papa chicken.

Attorney Aaron Rosenthal, breeder of pigeons, defended the birds. J. A. Adams, president of the Wisconsin Poultry Breeders' association, was there. Robert Clark, president of the Milwaukee Flying club, terminated the proposed ordinance "another eighteen amendment."

After an hour of controversy the proposal was put over for two weeks for further consideration. The fowl controversy even inspired one newspaperman to rise to poetic heights with:

Said the cock to the hen: "By Jimminy Gee, I read where Doc Koehler's Gone gunning for me. 'Say I crow in the morning, Spoil gobs of good shut-eye, By golly—'aint right. 'Me? I scratch for a living—Oh, heavenly day! 'Don't tell me, old lady, It's the woman that pays.'"

ORGANIZE CLASS IN SPEECH MAKING AT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Miss Agnes Huberty, High School Instructor, to Teach Course

The new class in the elementary essentials of public speaking, organized last week at Appleton vocational school, will meet at 7:30 Wednesday evening, according to Herb Hellig, director of the school.

Miss Agnes Huberty, a teacher at Appleton high school, and graduate of Lawrence college and of Milwaukee Institute of Speaking, will instruct the new class which is designed for students who have little knowledge in speech making. The object of the class is to prepare the student to face an audience, and to teach him to establish confidence in himself when called upon to talk.

"Essentials of Public Speaking," a text book designed and published by Professor Frederick Orr, formerly of the speech department of Lawrence college, and now at the University of Washington, will be used.

Eight students have enrolled for the course, and there is room left for five or six more, according to Mr. Kellig.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER CITY BUDGET FOR 1930

The Eben E. Rexford Memorial committee will meet at 2:30 Thursday afternoon in the office of Henry M. Weston, president of Lawrence college. The meeting was called by W. E. Smith, chairman of the committee, and arrangements are to be made to further plans to establish a memorial to Mr. Rexford, a poet, story and song writer who lived at Shiocton. Mr. Rexford was the author of "Silver Threads Among the Gold." This committee's activities were abruptly halted about six months ago by the death of Eben R. Minahan at Green Bay, a member of the committee and one of those most active in the efforts to secure a memorial to honor Mr. Rexford.

DRAMATIC SOPRANO ON ARTIST SERIES

Dusolina Giannini Will Appear in Appleton Next Winter

Dusolina Giannini, who will appear in Appleton this winter on the Community Artist Series, is one of the world's most sensational dramatic sopranos, enshrined in the esteem of two continents. Since her appearance in Carnegie hall March 14, 1923, when she substituted for an indisposed singer, her time has been divided between Europe and America, and her triumphs in both countries are indicative of her artistic ability.

The artist was born in Philadelphia and received her early musical education from her parents, both of whom are musicians, her father a tenor who was associated with Adelina Patti in many operatic performances. Her later training was received with Marcella Sembrich in New York.

Within four seasons of her debut Miss Giannini had appeared with practically all the orchestras in the country, had given numerous recitals from Canada to Havana and from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and had made three tours of Europe, where she sang in recital, with orchestras and in opera.

Season tickets for the Giannini and four other concerts scheduled for this season are on sale at Bellings drug store.

The two girls, students at Milwaukee Downer college, were returning to their homes. Miss Quick's condition is said to be critical.

C. C. DIRECTORS TO MEET FRIDAY NOON

Directors of Appleton chamber of commerce will meet Friday noon at Hotel Northern. Reports from committee chairmen will be heard.

FIRE AND POLICE DEPARTMENT TO BE HEATED BY STOVES

Shades of the old Hot Store league!

Plans for establishing branches of this organization probably are being made by Appleton police and firemen as a result of the installation of huge old fashioned heaters in each of those departments this week.

Installation of the stoves was necessitated when workmen started removing the old furnace which heats both departments to make way for a modern heating system which the common council decided is necessary.

It is believed that several weeks will elapse before the new heating system is ready, and until that time the only heat the firemen and policemen will have in the stations will be that generated by the heaters.

BAND WILL PLAY CONCERT TUESDAY

Plan to Take Pictures of Crowd at Next Program at Lawrence Chapel

The second indoor concert of the season to be presented by the 120th field artillery band will be played next Tuesday evening at Lawrence memorial chapel, according to Edward F. Mumm, director.

Pictures of the band and the audience will be taken, Mr. Mumm said. A specially equipped camera will be used.

Two numbers listed for Tuesday's program are expected to make an unusual hit with Appleton concert goers. One is "Der Freischutz" by Weber, the other "Dance Macabre." The former number was played by Philadelphia symphony orchestra as part of a radio program several weeks ago.

Another number, a bit different from the first two, will be the musical comedy selection "Louisiana Lou." The number was a big favorite in the musical comedy world back in 1910.

My Favorite Bible Passage

TODAY'S CHOICE

Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness—Matthew 6:33.

Whoever will be great among you, let him be your minister; and whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant—Matthew 20:26-27.

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of God—Matthew 19:24.

If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell what thou hast and give it to the poor—Matthew 19:21.

COMMENT

"When Jesus says poor at this point, I think that Jesus means the members of his Holy Brotherhood of the Kingdom. I am chiefly interested in the social passion that pervades the Gospel as a sacred fire. This aspect of the great Message has never been emphasized sufficiently. I am writing a volume along this line for publication in 1931."

Just Naturally Good

Good tobaccos . . . made good by Nature, not by "artificial treatment." That's the secret of OLD GOLD'S goodness

A chef may be able to make a doubtful steak taste good by artificial flavoring and sauces . . . But it's still dangerous to your stomach.

So it is with cigarette tobaccos. "Heat-treating" is useful to "set" and "sterilize" the tobaccos . . . and all cigarette makers have used it for years. But "heat-treating" cannot take the place of good tobacco in making a honey-smooth cigarette.

Better Tobaccos make them smoother and better . . . with "not a cough in a carload"

On your Radio, OLD GOLD—PAUL WHITEMAN HOUR. Paul Whiteman, with his complete orchestra, every Tuesday, 9 to 10 P. M., Eastern Standard Time

OLD GOLD tobaccos are naturally good. Carefully selected from Nature's best for smoothness, flavor and freedom from throat-scratch.

You have only to try a package to get the thrill of this smoother and better cigarette. That will tell you why OLD GOLD'S sales are ALREADY THREE TIMES GREATER than the combined sales of three leading brands during a like period of their existence.

Senate Sidetracks Tariff To Vote On Farm Board

AT LEAST DAY REQUIRED FOR FINAL ACTION

Opposition Expected to Be Concentrated Against Williams, McKelvie

Washington (AP)—A statement that Chairman Legge of the farm board had been "on the other side of the fence" on the farm relief question so long that he ought to feel compelled to do something now for the agricultural interests was made in the senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

The senate today temporarily sidetracked the tariff bill to take up the question of confirmation of the eight board members.

Legge, former head of the International Harvester Co., was said by Norris to have grown rich on implements sold to the farmers while the latter were "going down and down" deeper into bankruptcy.

"He's been on the other side of the fence so long," Norris asserted, "that he will probably be interested in seeing that the farmer does get some help now."

The Nebraska said he was not going to vote against any of the board members but wanted to make some observation on some of those against whom objection had been raised in the agriculture committee. One vote was cast against Legge in the committee while three votes each went against a favorable report on Samuel R. McKelvie of Lincoln, Nebraska, wheat member and Carl Williams of Oklahoma City, Okla., representative for cotton.

"PLAYS GOOD GOLF"

Turning to a discussion of McKelvie, Norris said he "may not understand the needs of the farmer, but I understand he plays a good game of golf, and knows all the needs of society."

Referring to the "courageous fight" of Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister and hostess of Vice President Curtis to obtain her "proper seat" at social functions, Norris commended McKelvie for his "interest" in seeing how guests should be seated and determining "what they ought to eat and drink."

The Nebraska senator said he thought the farm board would fail to aid the farmer because the law limited it to deal with world instead of domestic price bases and for this reason it would not be the board's fault.

"At the outset of the debate McNary said he had been 'deeply impressed' with the board members although he believed they should have 'functioned' more aggressively from the start."

He added, however, that he felt the board in a general way had tried to administer the farm relief act promptly.

Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, at the outset objected to taking up the nominations at this time and said he would vote against all of them because of the manner in which they were brought before the senate.

Washington (AP)—The senate today temporarily sidetracked the tariff bill to consider the agriculture committee's report recommending confirmation of the eight members of the Federal Farm Board.

Finance committee Republicans agreed just before the senate met to permit the nominations to come up. Indications were disposition of the nominations would require at least a whole day.

Beyond one day or possibly several to be devoted to this latest factor, loomed the disposition of an export debenture rider of the tariff bill. After that remained the remainder of individual amendments before rate schedules could be reached.

With the abandonment of conferences of leaders of means of expediting tariff consideration, it was considered virtually certain, with these other items incident to the regular session, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee has indicated he would ask night sessions as a last expedient.

EXPECT OPPOSITION

As the senate turned to consideration of nominees to the federal farm board, with opposition to three expected, prospects were not only that the bill would be a long time on the senate floor, but that many weeks in conference would be necessary if an attempt is made by senate and house conferees to reinstate the flexible tariff provision which President Hoover desires and the house continued in the bill.

The brunt of the opposition to the farm board nominees is expected to be broke by Carl Williams of Oklahoma, cotton representative on the board, and Sam R. McKelvie, Nebraska, compromise wheat representative. Earlier opposition suggested to Alexander P. Legge, chairman, seemed to have diminished.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, a Republican independent leader, has announced his intention of proposing an export debenture rider before consideration of rate schedules; earlier, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said he would move to recommend with instructions to limit revision to far schedules.

While the consensus was that neither proposal could muster a necessary majority, the respective proponents were determined that the senate should go on record.

SEE MORE DELAYS

With talk also of a move by members of the Democratic-Republican independent coalition to seek consideration of the agricultural schedule first, which, under ordinary procedure would be considered after six other schedules had been disposed of, prospects for early disposition were further dimmed.

Republican leaders have indicated that this latest suggestion would be considered as in conflict with the

CONSTABLE AGAIN ACTS AS JUDGE; COLLECTS FINES

Fines from three motorists arrested in the town of Grand Chute for parking without lights last month were turned over to the municipal court today by Herman Abitz, Grand Chute constable.

This is the second time that Constable Abitz has arrested motorists and collected fines and costs from them when they admitted their guilt and willingness to settle without having to appear in court.

Usually the court imposes a fine of $5 and costs on persons pleading guilty of parking without lights. Mr. Abitz collected this amount from each.

Those for whom fines were turned over to the court this morning were: F. E. Schwab, arrested Sept. 17; Smeckel, arrested Sept. 26; and "John Doe" also arrested on Sept. 26.

About a month ago Mr. Abitz turned over to the court the fines which he had collected from 13 persons arrested by him throughout the summer. At that time one of the persons who paid the fine was classed as "John Doe" also.

Nine automobile owners, arrested for parking more than 30 minutes on College ave yesterday, were fined $1 and costs each by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning.

Two others arrested on the same charge are to be arraigned in court later.

Those who paid fines Tuesday afternoon were: Robert Larsen, 238 N. Union-st.; J. M. Hansen, 708 N. Bates-st.; M. G. Clark, 224 E. College-ave; and Chester Hibel, 318 N. Franklin-st. Those who were "fined" Wednesday morning were: Elizabeth Hansen, 530 N. Lawrence-st.; M. G. Gowan, 104 E. College-ave; Norman Bell, route 5, Appleton; Guy Meahan, 539 N. All arrests were made by Officer Lester Van Roy who patrolled College-ave on orders from Police Chief George T. Prim. A recent checkup by the department revealed that motorists failing to observe the parking limit law and Chief Prim decided to start a drive toward enforcement.

Ideal weather continued in this vicinity Wednesday and moderate temperatures were recorded although the mercury dropped several degrees Tuesday night. Winds are shifting in the north and northwest, which is a fair indication that chilly weather is ahead.

HAY IS BURNED ON GILLS LANDING MARSH

Fire believed to have started from sparks from the engine of train No. 22 on the Soo line consumed several tons of hay on the upper Gills Landing marsh and destroyed the ice house of the Arthur Knight summer home about 9 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The wreckage fire department received was called and a large crowd of people went to fight the fire. The Knight summer home was threatened but did not catch fire. The land over which the fire swept is owned by Eric Timm, Arthur Knight, James Scoville and Julius Mellen. Two large stacks of hay on both the Mellen and Timm property were destroyed.

It has been suggested that Republican leaders might move to defer action on the tariff question until after the biennial elections next fall in the event that consideration should continue far into the regular session.

Rumors have circulated, too, that the president would veto a bill without the flexible plan but nothing to substantiate or deny them has been forthcoming from the white house.

Arrange New Night School Classes To Suit Students

Since the opening of evening school at Appleton vocational school, plans for organizing new courses have been formulated. It was found that in some departments little interest was shown, and that in many cases people were seeking instruction in fields which would more definitely aid them in their occupations, according to Herb Heilig, school director.

Several new courses are getting underway this week, and plans have been completed for more new classes next week. If enough enroll and the

LION ACTIVITIES OUTLINED AT MEET OF DISTRICT HEADS

Appleton Clubs Program Is Considered One of Most Active in State

The major activity plan of Appleton Lions club, considered one of the best in the state, was outlined to presidents and secretaries of the district Lion clubs in Milwaukee Monday, by E. L. Madisen, secretary of the Appleton club. He spoke in the absence of A. G. Meating, club president, who had to remain in Appleton because of several meetings here.

Among the local activities in which the club is interested are the high school band, for which the club bought instruments; the boy scout movement; and rural and city gatherings and fairs which the club has sponsored.

State activities of the Lions also came in for discussion, and cooperation of various local clubs was asked in getting the state legislature to change the blind pension from $30 a month to $200 a year to $500 annually.

The district organization has pledged support to the move and is seeking aid of the local clubs.

Plans to provide a loan fund for blind persons so they may easily obtain raw products with which to work and earn money also were considered. A committee of which Giles Putnam, New London, was named chairman, was appointed to investigate and report at the next convention of district clubs at Sheboygan in June.

PUSH PRELIMINARY PLAYERS' TRYOUTS

Preliminary tryouts for "Outward Bound," first play for this season of the Sunset players, Lawrence college dramatic organization, were being heard in Memorial chapel this afternoon by F. T. Cloak, head of the department of dramatics at the college. The dramatic group tried out for parts in the play by Sutton Vane between 2:30 and 5 o'clock, reading selections from the production under Cloak's direction.

A complete cast will be announced as soon as possible, so that the student actors will be able to swing into rehearsals in plenty of time to prepare for the presentation on Thursday, Nov. 21.

"Outward Bound" is a comparatively modern mystery production, concerning which the New York Times comments: "The climax of the first part of this extraordinary play provides the sort of thrill that comes no oftener than once in a theatrical season. A strange company of shipmates, mystified by a vaguely apprehensive feeling of unreality and uncertainty, suddenly discover that their ship is unmanned and without lights, and is gliding noiselessly across the River Styx."

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE AS RESULT OF REVERSES

Milwaukee (AP)—The lure of the stock market and consequent losses was given as the cause of the attempted suicide of Arthur W. Kueckel, 35, yesterday. He took poison and today was in a critical condition in a local hospital.

Kueckel, a department manager for a box manufacturing, put his savings in stocks in hopes of making more money for his wife and three children. He lost. Yesterday afternoon he wrote a letter telling his family that with the insurance he was leaving them they would be better off than if he lived. Then he went to a park, sat down on a bench and took poison. In the letter was an admonition to his family not to mourn, but to go to the theatre as usual and enjoy life.

CHARGE LOCAL MAN RESISTED OFFICER

Warrant Is Issued for Peter Winters After Dance Hall Fracas

A warrant was issued Wednesday morning for Peter Winters, Appleton, charging him with resisting an officer and disorderly conduct at a dance hall at Greenville last night. Deputy Sheriff Lothar Kemp, who was on duty at the dance hall, is the complainant.

Winters, according to Kemp, was making disturbance in the dance hall. When he refused to leave he was ejected by the officer. Officer Kemp said that Winters then tried to attack him. Winters was taken into custody, but while Officer Kemp was bringing him to a car, intending to take him to the county jail, Winters broke away and started to flee, the officer reported.

The officer shot into the air and Winters felt thinking he was hit, according to Kemp. He submitted to arrest then and was taken to the county jail where he was later released under custody of his father.

The warrant was to be served on Winters Wednesday morning. It was expected he would be taken into court in the afternoon.

"Toronto—By a vote that swept the entire convention, except for a solitary negative, the American Federation of Labor went on record in favor of old age pensions in more than its usual vigorous fashion after a futile effort to create a cleavage along lines of state socialism. Convincing and overwhelming as the vote was, it none the less left unsettled an issue that, in the view of some of the ablest leaders, is due to rise again. The argument against the proposal was that until the injunction issue is decided finally in favor of labor's exemption from what the leaders term its abuse, and until freedom to organize is fully secured, every other legislative issue should be submerged.

John P. Frey, secretary of the metal trades department, and one of the veterans, propounded that point of view. For a brief period he went beyond that, asking, "are we to become wards of the state?"

DEFENDS ACTION
Matthew Woll, vice president, defended the action on the ground that it did not mean letting down in other directions and that it was but a repetition of previous convention actions. Victor A. Olander, declared that state organizations have been led by the federation into state efforts to secure old age pensions and that the federation could not now abandon them to a lone position.

After the vote, leaders of both sides agreed that neither the debate nor the action made clear the position of the federation. The charge hurled into the debate was intended to convey the impression that by favoring old age pensions the federation was adopting a policy leading to socialism—relief from economic ills by "leaning on the state," as one delegate put it.

AGREE ON MATTER
Lommy debates range heatedly around the question of whether American labor is abandoning its strict adherence to industrial or economic action and veering toward the political arena and dependence upon the state which, it was declared in these circles, "must lead straight toward the European policy, a labor party and a socialist program."

That this is not the case is agreed upon by Matthew Woll, John P. Frey—opponents in the debate—and virtually every other leader of importance.

"The only thing that can be said about the whole question," said one official, "is that in earlier days the federal was pushed into advocacy of old age pensions by then existing socialist influences, finally agreed to by Samuel Gompers and kept in the record ever since."

The fact that several state federations of labor have organized campaigns for state legislative action in favor of old age pensions was pointed to, but it also was noted that one state federation stopped its campaign after having accumulated a large fund for its promotion—a fund which remains intact in its treasury.

LAWRENCE STUDENT CONVINCED CUSTOMS HEADS ARE HONEST

No one can convince Ellis Joseph, of Java, a student at Lawrence college, that United States customs officials are not honest. Since his matriculation here, Joseph has been paying his college expenses through the sale of Persian rugs, sent him by his uncle, a wealthy shiek of Bagdad, Persia, who has been unable to send the student money because of the ruinous rate of exchange existent between the two countries.

Joseph has been paying regular duty on his rugs, and has been selling them in Appleton. This week he received a check from American customs officials for five dollars, said to be overpaid on his last remittance to the customs office. The Persian boy was greatly astounded to receive the money.

"I thought that if you gave them too much, they just keep it," he explained.

NEW ATTITUDE IS BEGINNING TO BE SHOWN OIL STOCKS

Market Suddenly Realizes Shares Are Selling Far Too Low

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)
New York—No more interesting shift in sentiment has been seen in Wall Street in a long time than the new attitude toward the oil stocks. Practically all the time the rest of the list was being bid up to extravagant heights, capitalizing earnings at unheard of rates, the oils were the orphans of the stock family.

Week by week the production statistics announced by the trade show an increase and all the talk was of the excess in supply. This situation has changed only recently. Oil stocks are now beginning to attract a following and some of them, such as Standard Oil of New Jersey, have made striking price gains. They are still selling, however, much under the level of the rest of the market.

The trade is more cheerful also. Today's report for the week ending Oct. 12 showed a drop of 52,057 barrels in the daily average production of crude in the United States.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CANDY

To Be Moderate Is Not to Gorge or to Undereat

A noted food authority states that attacks on candy lack a background of scientific insight. He reminds us that in addition to sugar, the best candies and confections of the present day contain also many other foods. He enumerates nuts, milk, cream, butter, gelatine, chocolate, and fruits, as being used along with sugar in delicious, modern candies, and he says that good candy as a dessert may become a wholesome part of a meal. Who, he asks, would deprive the world of one of its most delicious desserts?

Science and common sense are restoring sanity to the nation today. Don't gorge. Don't undereat. Prepare a great variety of all healthful foods. Flavor these so that they will be delightful to the taste. Those are some of the present-day precepts that will guide us to a better diet.

If a dash of sugar will encourage your family to eat cereals, fresh, canned and stewed fruits, and milk in the form of milk drinks and milk desserts, then—in the name of health—use a dash of sugar. Try a dash of sugar when cooking vegetables in a small amount of water, and you will be surprised at how much fresher, more colorful and more delicious the vegetables are. A little sugar sprinkled here and there throughout the meal will encourage children and adults to eat the varied diet that is so necessary to health. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

of an advance in the wholesale quotation are heard. This is encouraging because second only to the bogey of overproduction has been the fear of cuts in prices of crude and of gasoline.

The oil stocks acted well when the rest of the market was under pressure and that has weighed heavily with the in-and-out traders. Finally, income statements have been almost uniformly favorable. One authority estimated today that the larger oil companies would show an increase of 25 per cent in earnings this year over those of a year ago.

SOME FOGGY THINKING

We Americans, as everybody knows, are a very fine and intelligent people. But somehow there seem to be times when we are guilty of some extremely foggy mental processes. There is, for instance, the matter of prohibition indictments recently voted in northwestern Indiana. Nearly 300 men were indicted there after a long investigation by federal officials. Among this number, in addition to the usual collection of bootleggers, restaurant keepers, vice-lieutenants and such fry, there were one mayor of a city, several other city officials and a group of policemen.

When this news appeared in the papers the ordinary, respectable American shook his head sadly and wondered what things were coming to, and why. The ordinary American thereupon convicted himself of some foggy thinking. Corruption such as was just uncovered in Indiana is a thing that can be traced directly to the doors of several millions of men who do not, ordinarily, consider themselves poor citizens.

These guilty ones are the men who patronize bootleggers. They, in the last analysis, are the men who are responsible for this kind of scandal. They are the men who provide the money that bribes policemen and prohibition agents, the money that trickles illegally into the pockets of mayors and councilmen, the money that pays for gang wars, corrupt politics and crooked attorneys.

The thing is so obvious that it hardly needs explanation. Yet most of us utterly fail to see it. The country is full of upright, well-intentioned people who deplore lawlessness and corruption—but who also ring up their bootleggers' every so often to buy a little liquid cheer. Did you, oh gentle and fearless reader, ever perchance to buy a pint of gin for a few after-dinner cocktails? Did you ever invest in a few bottles of beer to enliven an evening's poker party? If you did, you have no reason to complain of crooked officeholders or corrupt police officers. Your own money helped to corrupt them.

This, of course, is self-evident. Yet most of us do not grasp it. We throw up our hands when we read of a mess like this in Indiana—and then we do our part to multiply such messes by putting more dollars into the rum ring's slush fund. You can think as you please about the virtues or otherwise of prohibition, of course. But if you patronize the bootlegger—even if it is only occasionally—don't be surprised at the things that your money does. Whether you like prohibition or not, it is an obvious fact prohibition's corruption is paid for by the bootleggers' patrons.

CLEVELAND AIDS FOREIGNERS

Cleveland, a city with a large foreign population, tries to bring the various national groups together in civic interests and enterprises. One proposal along this line is the establishment of a chain of cultural gardens, each sponsored by a racial group and designed and planted to represent a typical bit of Old World culture.

Three such gardens already exist. There is a Shakespeare garden in which bloom all the flowers mentioned by the great poet. There are trees and shrubs planted by famous English actors and literary personages. There is a bust of Shakespeare.

Then there is the typical Palestinian garden, where limestone pillars set in a circle about the garden serve as a background for bas reliefs of the great Jewish philosophers who were also world philosophers.

The German garden at present contains busts of Lessing, Mendelssohn,

Goethe and Schiller in addition to its German flowers.

Future gardens will be set out by Russians, Slovaks, Hungarians, Irish, Bohemians, Lithuanians, Ukrainians, Poles, and so on.

"We hope," said a leader in the movement, "each garden will express a distinctive spirit. We hope the entire chain will represent the search for truth that knows no race nor creed. We hope to create living memorials to the men and women for achievement in literature, art, science, and religion."

It is a picturesque and lovely thing to do. Gardens are beautiful in themselves. There can hardly be too many of them in any city. When each is loved and cherished by a special group of interested citizens it is bound to flourish for the benefit of all.

WAGES IN EUROPE

Henry Ford has set off a lot of economic bombs in Europe by his announcement that the workers in his new European plants will be paid somewhere near the same wages as in America.

Foreign workmen are tremendously pleased, but foreign employers are frightened and angry. A representative of French industrialists calls it "unfair financial dumping," which is an entertaining phrase, when you think it over. Europe has been coveting American money, and now protests against having it "dumped" there.

The feeling of those employers, who will be competing directly or indirectly with the Ford factories, can be understood by Americans who remember the reaction that came when Ford started his high wage system in this country. Not only his rivals but manufacturers, in all lines objected. Possibly Mr. Ford could afford such wages, they said, but they could not. Workmen were being given dangerous ideas and expectations. It wasn't playing the game. Employers should hang together. Europe is re-echoing those criticisms, only more energetically because the gap between Ford wages and other wages is so much greater there today than it ever was here.

Edward A. Filene, the Boston merchant and philanthropist, takes up the cudgel for Mr. Ford and insists that he is not engaging in unfair competition but performing a general service for the Old World.

High wages, he says, go with mass production. Let foreign industries adopt American production methods, and they can afford the high wages because production becomes so much cheaper and because a greater income for the working classes creates a market that absorbs the increased output.

If Ford and Filene are right, Europe is being shown the way to win the one thing it yearns for more than anything else in the world. If it acquiesces and cooperates instead of resisting, Europe itself may gain American prosperity.

ALASKA'S FOREST RESERVES

Mention the wealth of Alaska and the average man thinks at once of gold mines. Yet in the years to come it is probable that Alaska's other natural resources will provide quite as much wealth as her fabled gold mines ever did.

A bulletin from the Department of Agriculture reports that the Tongass and Chugach National Forests in Alaska are capable of maintaining a permanent, large-scale pulp and paper industry—an item of some importance, since the price of paper has shown a tendency to rise for years.

Cut under Forest Service supervision, the bulletin says these two forests could supply such an industry indefinitely, with the annual cut held down to a point exactly equal to the annual growth.

Alaska's forests undoubtedly will come in very handy in the near future, considering the way we are cutting our timber south of the Canadian line.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—High society is amusing itself with low comedy.
Quoting a blurb:
"Clothes have gone modern, furniture's gone modern, and so have parties! Nowadays it takes more than a couple of bridge tables, a radio and the man who does simply killing things with a deck of cards to keep that how-some-can-we-go-and-still-be-polite look from creeping over the faces of your guests."
It takes, to be more explicit, the modern descendant of the capped and belled fools of medieval courts.

HOME FUN

Night club buffoons, the Jackson, Clayton and Duranto, those mad Cyrano, Bert Lehr, the mugging mimic, are the favorite type of entertainers for private parties, say Eleanor Cotton Burden and Anita Damrosch Little.
Mrs. Burden, of the social leading Burdens, and Mrs. Little, daughter of Walter Damrosch, are in charge of a new entertainment bureau sponsored by the New York Junior League to furnish worried hostesses with yawn-dispelling tales.

APARTMENT INFLUENCE

In the grand days of the 1920s, parties were bigger and more splendid, but less frequent. Hence they often became the talk of the town. Nowadays as much money is spent, or more. One ball last season cost $10,000. But little is heard about opulence.
Apartment life and decline of the art of conversation are held responsible. Restaurants and hotel ball-rooms are hired for the more elaborate functions, but at home the guests haven't room to dance, so they have to be entertained in some other manner. And as every hostess wants something new or somebody different, providing entertainers has become a large endeavor.
Children's parties, too, have changed. In the former mansions the little masters and misses could play games. But there isn't room in their present homes. For that reason, clowns and magicians are hired to keep the kiddies happy.

ART AND COMMERCE

The concert season is getting under way and the piano companies are leading instruments to the artists.
Forty years ago the piano manufacturers were among the chief patrons of music in America. They introduced to the United States such noted Europeans as Rubenstein and Adelina Patti and one firm has spent much on Paderewski.
The artists were paid a stipulated sum above expenses and were managed by the manufacturers, who collected whatever receipts the concerts brought in.
The old practices were abandoned about 20 years ago as independent managers took the artists under their direction. Some piano companies still guarantee expenses to the more promising musicians, but for the most part they merely supply the instruments.
The phonograph companies also help lighten the concert tour expenses, one manager said, by contributing printed matter, programs, window cards and such.

Today's Anniversary

MARIE ANTOINETTE
On Oct. 16, 1783, Marie Antoinette, queen of France and consort of Louis XVI, was beheaded as a traitor to her country.
Marie Antoinette was the daughter of Emperor Francis I and Maria Theresa of Austria and was betrothed to the French Dauphin at the age of 14. She was married at Versailles a year later.
The queen's love of luxury and amusements and her indifference to the miseries of the people, combined with her efforts to influence Louis XVI to shape the foreign policy of France in accordance with the interests of Austria, made her unpopular.
From the first hour of the French revolution, she was the object of a fanatical hatred. The unhappy queen and her husband were at last imprisoned.
Louis XVI was executed on Jan. 21, 1793, and in October of that year the queen was brought before the revolutionary tribunal and charged with fomenting civil war and lending counsel to the enemies of France.
There is no doubt that the queen corresponded with her brother relative to the invasion of France by an Austrian army for the purpose of rescuing the royal family.
After two days' trial the queen was found guilty of treason and condemned to death. She was executed the same day. Her tragic fate has given rise to voluminous literature.

MORTALITY OF THE STEENTEN DAY DIET

Among every thousand women or girls who have succumbed to the reduction craze probably half a dozen have reduced. The other 994 have firmly held their own at all hazards. But this grand total result by no means indicates the mortality of the reduction fad, and it will require several years to show how much real sickness and unhappiness this craze has brought to those who have taken on it too ardently. Likewise, however, only those who know how much damage has been done by the steenten day diet, to dumbbros who have swindled this particular regimen too literally. One pleasingly plump girl studied over the menus, noted that lamb chop was honored by a place on the card, and figured that if one lamb chop would reduce a person 1 1/2 pounds, half a dozen ought to make a distinct impression. She accordingly included half a dozen chops in her diet for several days running, and when she stepped on the scales once more she was still as comfortable as an armful as ever. Where she made her beefsteak was in neglecting to consume a crate of grapefruit and a small bale of hay with breakfast every morning. Hay isn't grown in California very much, but the people who propagated the steenten day diet like to have customers leave the table well filled.

Now I'm going to quote a bit from a recent medical treatise. I'll omit some of the more attractive symptoms, and give you only a quick flash at the sad picture:
"...crazed among women to acquire a silhouette figure. Reduction in weight has been sought in many ways and has resulted in a weakened physical and nervous resistance and an undermined abdominal support; frequently a... its has developed with coincident... osis (scrambled contents) Moreover... chronic fatigue... low blood pressure... indigestion..."

Unless a lady's ambition is to play the part of a faun in a Midsummer Nightmare, it is now acknowledged. Night by night common consent and the pronouncement of the most eminent showgirl authorities, that curves are essential. The surest way to have curves is to carry a comfortable excess of weight; only taking pains to keep it evenly distributed, say by doing a regular daily walk of three to six miles.

Everybody everywhere walks less today than was the general custom 20 or 30 years ago. For a time, in the early years of the century, walking was unfashionable because it was so cheap. Today it is actually an economic question whether it costs more to walk or ride wherever you are going. All factors considered walking is rather a diversion or recreation which only the privileged few can afford today.

I do not mean to say that daily walking will reduce anything except genuinely superfluous flesh. I do say that the normal individual requires an average of six miles of oxygen on the hoof every day just to keep reasonably fit. And I have on fire some pretty good evidence that girls and women who get an adequate ration of oxygen on the hoof or otherwise do keep fit, also their figures.

It isn't the cats that account for the increased adiposity of the race. It is the habit of riding when one might walk.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—The tourist passing through Hollywood may fall to get within the walls of a single studio, or to see a single movie celebrity, but none could spend a day here without witnessing one of the greatest automobile shows in the world—a "continuous performance show" at that.

Perhaps nowhere else is there such a varied assortment of motor vehicles, ranging from the ultramodern foreign importation of a movie queen who may or may not be able to afford it, to the gangling, rattling, tinny flivver of a third assistant property boy.

A Hollywood which loves "glam"—this tinsel-and-glitter Hollywood you've read about—indulges its weakness in no subtle fashion; it goes in for "creations" in motors as well as in clothes.

The observant visitor cruising the boulevard may see in the steady stream of traffic gems of body design which anywhere else might block the flow. Here they are so commonplace as to attract more than passing comment, if even that.

BIZARRIE
There are snappy roadsters, gaudy with color—green and black and black and gleaming nickelplate; cardinal or scarlet, trimmed in yellow or black; sporty blue, with dashes of black or gold; or silver gilt, blinding, but dignified a bit by ebony wheels.

Luxurious coaches, sedately black and chauffeurs, purr slowly by, motorists subdued as though condescendingly, realizing their own potential power.

Coupees and phaetons and "town kysahs" and "country kysahs" and "achievements" with long, low-slung bodies like fleet greyhounds, and with rear-seat canopies—roll by in dazzling procession.

Foreign cars, with their unusual designs and right-hand-drives, are naturally in larger demand here, among a professional group which thrives on publicity and attention, than in less lime-lighted cities.

The importations usually stand out even among the "ritziest" of American makes, and an actor who owns one euh, with a mahogany body trimmed in snowy white, declares that a ride down the boulevard or a main street of Los Angeles, with his two enormous dogs in the rear seat, is worth as much in personal publicity as a personal appearance at a theater.

BACK ON WHEELS
The recent Equity controversy, in which large numbers of actors forsook work during the fight with the producers, left many stranded with unowned cars and payment due. A few surmounted the crisis by "renting" them to solvent friends. Now the trouble is over; they are getting back on wheels with the rest of Hollywood.

Molded Bodice and Flaring Hem

BY ANNEBEELE WORTHINGTON

A black crepe satin that follows the Princess lines with molded bodice and full flaring hem.

It employs the two surfaces of the crepe for trimming contrast. The dull surface is used for the entire dress with the exception of applied bands and trimmings pieces attached to bands at left side, which are made of the shiny surface.

Style No. 3002 designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust as easily made in about two hours. The outlay is very small, and it's a dress that will meet everyday requirements gracefully for the woman of moderate budget. It's a splendid choice. Don't hesitate!

In feather-weight woolen in self-checked pattern in plum shade, it is a Paris favorite. It shows clever manipulation of fabric with the bands cut on the bias, repeated in trimming pieces.

Printed velvet with the bands made of plain velvet in predominant tone of print is very effective.

Plain sheer velvet in black with metal cloth bands in beige shade is exquisite for afternoons.

Faille silk crepe, flat rayon crepe in tweed pattern, crepe de chine, canton crepe, and Kashmir jersey attractive selections.

The Story of Sue

CHAPTER 47
JIMMY, however, did not accompany Harry and Sue to Sarah Slade's apartment. He excused himself on the ground of work he must do and went home.

"That Lester woman wouldn't take a prize for her disposition," Harry commented when he returned. "But she had left her pocketbook! That gets me. Why did it happen tonight?"

"She was mighty nice and apologetic about making me get it, too," Mr. Merryman added.

"Sybil knows how sometimes. When she is good she is very, very good — which isn't often. I don't care for the lady," Harry shut his mouth tightly and succeeded in looking like a fat little boy instead of a determined young man, in spite of his size.

Sarah and Jack were returning just as Harry and Sue drove up.

"Come on in, everyone, and we'll unpack the family spoons and scrub them for the party," Sarah called. "You don't need to hurry away, do you, Jack?" Jack was looking at his watch.

"I'm supposed to — but I'll stay awhile. I wouldn't risk Humpty all alone with two fair women. How was the tennis, Sue?"

"Tennis?" She had almost forgotten that they had intended to play. Then she remembered and laughed. "Oh, we didn't play after all."

"But I went home to dinner with Sue," Harry added. "Such muffins!" It started to rain, after while, and the night shut them away from the outside world. Jack forgot his other engagement as they threw festoons across the dull brown walls and tied red and yellow balloons to every conceivable object.

"I'm going to float them everywhere tomorrow night," Sarah said. "Red ones and green ones and blue ones and orange ones. I've always wanted to sail dozens of balloons."

I've got permission to have the floor of this room waxed for dancing tomorrow, so watch your step, Humpty Dumpty darling. We'll have bridge tables at the south end of the room. The supper will be buffet style and upstairs in my apartment."

A clap of thunder interrupted her words.

"Come on, let's go upstairs and make coffee and sandwiches now," she said and darted off.

Jack waited for Sue who had been arranging a drape at the far end of the long room. Sue noticed that he watched her curiously as she came toward him.

"So you didn't play tennis?" he asked, half teasingly, half seriously. "Humpty is a good old scout but he never was noted for speed before."

"Speed? But I wanted him to come to supper. He seems — lonesome. Just like a child." She wanted Jack to understand.

"Lonesome, Sue? He never would have told you that but I've wondered about it, too." His voice was sympathetic.

"Like a little boy who wants to play and can't," Sue hunted for words. "He would even tell the others that he would put on his oldest suit so he would look like them, but they would be afraid he would take the pennies out of the pocket of his best one."

They had reached the exit from the room, a cloistered corner with a window against which the rain splashed furiously. Sue, who was a step ahead, turned her head and her eyes, purple now in the shadows, begged Jack to understand. Suddenly, without warning, he stooped over and kissed her on her lips.

NEXT Sue is worried.

The Tynymites By Hal Cochran

THE Weenoes finally cried "Hey, stop! We are so dizzy we will drop. This swinging is a heap of fun, but we have had enough. Kind Scouty meant to give us fun, but now just look what he has done. He's sent the swing away up high. We think that he's too rough."

"Well, goodness me," wee Scouty cried. "I think you've had a dandy ride. I didn't mean to tire you out. I'll stop the swing right now. When you are safely on your feet, I'll take my turn at this fine treat. You Weenoes all can push me. You can find a way somehow."

The swing then died down to a stop. The Weenoes shouted, "All right, hop right in it if you want to. We will push as best we can." So Scouty promptly hopped aboard, and in the air he shortly soared. The swing swung high as all the little Weenoes pushed and ran.

The other Tynies also had turns at swinging. They were glad when everyone had had enough. "Twice getting rather late," "I think," said Copsy, "it is best if we all flop down for a rest. Near yonder stump there's nice soft grass. For sleeping 'twill be great."

The Weenoes said, "You all can sleep and very close watch we will keep. We're not the least bit sleepy, so we'll stay wide awake. We'll let you snooze the whole night long and promise nothing will go wrong. You'll hear us shout, 'Wake up there,' when the dawn begins to break."

The Tynies slept and, all was still. Then suddenly there came a thrill. A funny looking, long-necked bird among the Weenoes hopped. The birds were scared. They all kept still. The bird grabbed each one in his bill, and lifted them up high. Within a three stump they were dropped. (A woodpecker starts trouble in the next story.)

R. A. Garrison gave short talks.

COUNCIL APPROVES ADDITIONAL HELP IN CITY OFFICES

Mayor and Finance Committee Authorized to Engage More Clerks

Menasha—Need of additional help in the municipal office was emphasized at the bi-monthly meeting of the common council Tuesday evening by Alderman T. E. McGilgan, a member of the finance committee, and Mayor W. E. Held. Alderman McGilgan said that while the city has increased from an assessed valuation of $5,000,000 when he was mayor more than ten years ago to $15,000,000 this year there has been no addition to the office force, which is swamped with work. Mayor Held said he had observed the same condition. He said there should be enough help to make it possible for patrons to be waited on promptly and under present conditions this is not the case. The finance committee and mayor were authorized to engage the necessary additional help at a sum not to exceed $150 per month. Realizing the need of council members informing themselves upon city planning the mayor, clerk, attorney and engineer were instructed to attend the conference of the Wisconsin City and Regional Planning association at Milwaukee Oct. 24 and 25, their expenses to be borne by the city. The need of zoning districts was deemed urgent by Mayor Held. The only chance Menasha now has to expand is toward the town of Menasha and it is only proper that the builders of new homes should be protected, he said.

GRANT GARAGE PERMIT

Henry Altergott, 856 N. Main, addressed the council in regard to a garage which he proposed to build on his property to house a truck and automobile. Neighbors had objected to the project. The permit was granted. A petition for a stop and go sign at the corner of Main and Illinois, signed by 200 taxpayers, was read. Alderman Baldwin suggested that if the petition is granted, a similar sign be installed at the corner of Third and Racine. Upon the recommendation of Chief of Police James Lyman it was decided to install both signs. A check for $100 from the estate of A. C. Cook was received and transferred to the poor fund. A letter of appreciation from the Menasha Paper Mills company now in the hands of a receiver for the rebate of taxes was read and placed on file. Letters of appreciation from Gov. Walter J. Kohler for his invitation to deliver an address at the dedication of the new Taycoast bridge and from F. J. Senneker for his attending fire protection to his residence on the shore of Lake Winnebago were accepted and placed on file. The resignation of F. D. Lake as a member of the public library board, and of Mr. Hahn as a supervisor of dances were accepted.

Condemnation proceedings for the improvement of Oak, Manitowish and Warsaw streets were ordered. A petition for an extension of time for the payment of taxes six months was granted. BLAINE AMENDMENT ON TARIFF BILL IS ADOPTED IN SENATE

Vote Encourages Him in Fight Against Certain Proposed Rates

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent)

Washington—The first amendment to the pending tariff bill proposed by Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, adopted today, was a dissenting vote, thus encouraging him in the fight he plans to make on specific rates which he believes detrimental to farmers.

Senator Blaine's amendment adopted after a two-hour discussion but without a vote against it is designed to bar the importation of goods produced by forced or indentured labor, just as the products of convict labor can be barred from importation under existing law.

This amendment carries out interpretations made by the Senate in ratifying two international conventions, one the convention on slavery and the other, ratified only a few weeks ago, on the removal of war-time restrictions placed on international trade. Senator Blaine proposed the "interpretation" or reservation which the Senate adopted in the case of the latter treaty.

In introducing his amendment, Senator Blaine said:

"I propose the amendment to the end that America shall not give aid and comfort to those employers and planters in foreign countries whose forced and indentured labor is brought to poverty and degradation with the attendant inhuman treatment of native workers, who were once a happy people under their own rule, but who are now being drawn into the machinery of industrialism which means their destruction as a people."

"Furthermore, American agriculture and the American worker, free from the standpoint of our economic security, should not be placed in competition with forced and indentured labor, wherever it may be found."

Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania and Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut sought to have Senator Blaine eliminate indentured labor from this amendment, saying that it would thus include the products of apprentices, but Senator Blaine pointed out the distinction between apprentice contracts and indentured contracts, as defined by the League of National labor organization.

Senator Bingham declared that the Blaine amendment would practically bar rubber from importation, stating that practically all the rubber raised in the world is raised under indentured labor. He said, too, that it would interfere with trade with South America and practically all tropical countries for indentured labor or "coolie labor" is the rule there.

Senator Blaine said that Java and Sumatra tobacco wrapper is produced largely by indentured labor. Such "coolie labor" prevails, he said, in the colonies and mandates of Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, and Great Britain, and in parts of South America.

Discretion is left to the President in the complete barring of such products.

NAME TWO BADGERS ON WOOD COMMITTEE

Rothschild and Eau Claire Men Are Appointed by Lamont

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent)

Washington—Secretary of Commerce R. P. Lamont has appointed two Wisconsin paper and box manufacturers to the national committee on wood utilization working in cooperation with the United States Department of Commerce.

D. C. West, vice president and general manager of the Menasha Paper Mills company at Menasha and T. J. Wilcox, president and general manager of the Linderman Box and Veneer company at Eau Claire are among the 16 new appointees to the committee.

"All of these appointees," said Secretary Lamont, "have accepted service with the committee because of their interest in the movement to perpetuate our forests. The committee's part in this movement is the promotion of efficient wood utilization and the elimination of waste in wood-using industries."

The committee was established in 1925 by Herbert Hoover, who was then secretary of commerce and who served as the first chairman of the committee. The committee has already reported on ways to utilize short lengths of lumber and its waste is expected to save millions of dollars to home builders as well as to eliminate waste in the use of forest products. This is only one example of a large number of projects for avoiding waste worked out by the committee.

May Affiliate Flying School With Lawrence

Wisconsin Rapids—Possibility that the Nepeco City Flying service aviation course may become affiliated with Lawrence college, Appleton, was expressed here Tuesday after a meeting and discussion of the joint committee of the college board of trustees here Monday afternoon.

J. E. Alexander, member of the college board of trustees and president of the Nepeco City Flying service, Wisconsin Rapids, was named chairman of the aviation committee to consider the proposed affiliation some time ago by the members of the board. The committee will select college credit for their course here.

With him on the committee are Dr. H. M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, Ben Alexander, Wausau; Carl Mathie, Wausau; Dr. Holes Appleton, and Carl Stansbury, Kaukauna, all of whom are members of the board of trustees of the Appleton school.

Following a prolonged discussion of the matter, the members of the committee were conducted about the spacious table-like airport south of this city, the large hangar and the fireproof dormitory which has been planned for students of the flying school.

If the proposed affiliation is adopted, the instructor from the college will be at the local airport throughout the summer months teaching aerodynamics and engineering, and in that way the local flying school will become a regular recognized accredited institution so far as Lawrence college is concerned. On the other hand, students who enroll in the flying school, but do not attend Lawrence college, will receive college credit for their course here.

All instructors in the school will be holders of masters' degree in engineering, according to the plan.

Definite action on the proposal probably will be taken when the aviation committee reports its findings to the board of trustees at the regular semi-annual meeting in Appleton Oct. 26.

The need of the men's athletic association for financial support was stressed at the committee meeting and following Hopkinson's proposal, the $200 transfer was accepted. NEW STYLES DON'T ALLOW FOR CURVES

Dressmakers Say Curves Are Out but Newest Models Disregard This Edict

BY AILEEN LAMONT
(Copyright, 1929, by Cona. Press)

New York — It is all very well for Paris couturiers to insist that feminine curves have replaced the boyish figure; but just let any woman naturally over-curved try to wear some of the new womanly styles! Nothing is more horrible than a high waist line when a normal waist line is practically non-existent. What to do, what to do? One thing to do is to contemplate a model shown in a Fifth-ave shop. This is a semi dinner dress of black velvet with a pleated waist. Its sleeveless blouse of gold brocade is worn beneath a black velvet jacket, slightly less than hip length, which fastens only with a soft black velvet sash and constitutes a splendid camouflage for superabundance.

Another throwback to the Naughty Nineties, together with long skirts and flounces, is the fan. Some of the new fans, neither large nor small, are of chiffon deftly fashioned to simulate feathers. Few things are more frivolously ladylike than a fan in the proper hands, and few accessories are smarter than a fan in the same color as the gown, but in a slightly different tint. As, for example, a blue-green fan of just the right tint with a yellow-green frock.

In addition to the sleek little hats which hug the head and muffle the ears, there is also—and for evening wear, too—a wide-brimmed floppy chapeau of velvet built on the general lines of the turned-down, knock-about hat worn by amateur fishermen. The effect is a trifle slapdash, in a nice way, and the hat appears at dinner or at the theatre by reason of the rich velvet from which it is fashioned and by reason of its general becomingness to an extraordinary number of women.

Lawrence Freshmen To Play St. Norberts Friday

THREE MILWAUKEE ALL-CITY STARS ON YEARLING ELEVEN

Team Is Being Coached by John Roach, Former Notre Dame Star

OUT on Whiting athletic field there comes nightly, a sturdy bunch of youngsters who make up the freshman football team. And this week they are especially happy because Johnny Roach, former Notre Dame star, is now their coach, and now their coach, is preparing them for one of the few game real games they can compete in.

In other words the Lawrence college freshmen are staying with the books until next fall when they feel they'll be able to get further in both studies and football. But someone must be needed for varsity opposition and accordingly about 20 are sticking to the old ship.

Two Appleton boys and perhaps a third will be shown in action Friday, Elias, an end on the Appleton high school football team last season and Marston, a reserve end will be shown against the invaders. Billy Lee, a guard, also is a possibility.

A couple Milwaukee high school footballers also will perform, a big husky chap named Van Lee being in at center with a quarter pit youngster, Joey LaGosha calling signals and John Cinko at fullback. All were all-Milwaukee stars in their respective positions when back home.

Van Lee is a former student of the old Lawrence staff. Liz Blackburne while LaGosha comes from that famous Third ward of Milwaukee where Lincoln, high school, holds sway and turns out the greatest cosmopolitan teams in the state.

Because the yearlings have only a game or two during the season and there are few times the men are seen in action against chaps whom they really want to beat, a large delegation of townspeople and college students are expected to attend the game.

OLYMPIC CHAMP ON BAY PRO FIGHT CARD

Davey Maier, Milwaukee, Scheduled to Meet Jack Kopp, Monday

Green Bay—The lid on the fall and winter boxing season in northeastern Wisconsin will be pried off on Monday night at Green Bay when the first of the Brown County Boxing Clubs shows in Columbus Auditorium brings together big Davey Maier, sensational light heavyweight who was a member of the American boxing team in the Olympic games in Amsterdam, and Sallor Jack Kopp, light heavyweight champion of the U. C. Coast Guard for 10 rounds of mauling.

Maier was the most talked about amateur heavyweight in the history of the boxing game and it is said that the highest inducement ever paid to an amateur for his first professional fight was finally paid when big Dave made the turn out to the coast guard base at the Soo, won his belt in Boston and has more than 100 battles in his ring history. Maier is a southerner, Kopp a right hander. Both are rated as sluggers.

As this will be the first time in the history of Green Bay boxing that a decision bout will be permitted, due to the change in the law by the last legislature, a record crowd is expected. The graduated floor in the huge auditorium which raises the seats as they get further from the ring will also be used for the first time and reserved seats will likely be greatly in demand before the curtain rises on another season of "the many arts."

In the semi-final, an 8 round bout, Joey Sutter of Charley Moties Oklahee Lake stable mixes with Sam Aducci, Chicago Heights, and in a six round party: Buster Wilberg, Madison mixes with Charley Crocker Iron Mountain lightweight. The opener a 4 rounder is between Patsy Woolcott, Elmira featherweight and Dick Dixon of Milwaukee.

Requests for seats should be addressed to Ticket Manager, Brown County Boxing club, Green Bay and will be cared for in the order received.

Chicago—(AP)—Hack Wilson has been playing baseball for many years but he can't make out the mental attitude of the fans.

"When I'm going great, you ride me; when I don't deserve credit, you cheer me," the pudgy outfielder told a cheering crowd which met him on its return from Philadelphia and the world series. "I can't figure you out."

Lew Fonseca Is Named Most Valuable Player In A. L. By Sport Scribes

Receives Only Credit, However, as League Has Abolished Cash Reward

BY ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman and batting champion of the American league, is the "most valuable player" of the league for 1929.

Based upon the decision of a committee of baseball writers representing each city in the circuit.

At the request of the sports editor of the Associated Press, this committee named Fonseca, the baseball writer, covering the world's series, cast its ballots in the absence of an official selection by the league, which abolished this year the award it had made annually since 1922.

The National league makes its first official selection this year, to be announced later.

The veteran Fonseca won the unofficial contest from contenders in the ranks of the world's champion.

APPLETON BOY TO SHOW ON FIGHT CARD

Weiler Wolfe Is Signed by Legionaires to Meet Vern Skinner, Neenah

At least one Appleton youth will appear on the next amateur boxing card being named by Oney Johnson post of the American legion for Oct. 24 at Army C.

Announcement was made Wednesday that Weiler Wolfe, Appleton, had been matched with Vern Skinner of Neenah for one of the fights on the card. Wolfe has fought in numerous amateur bouts in the valley for the last year having shown at Green Bay on several occasions. He is a clever, rugged battler and will enter the ring next week at about 150 pounds.

Skinner is no novice at the business of trading leather, and he too has been battling on amateur programs up and down the valley. Promoters everywhere have been trying to show him on their cards because he always puts up a battle.

Several other well known fighters have been carded for the Oct. 24 bill. Announcement was made a few days ago the Ira "Chief" Miller, Neenah, would show on the card in his last appearance as an amateur and that Freddie Bush, Sheboygan, and another youth from the same city would probably display their wares.

DAN HOWLEY WILL LEAD CINCINNATI

New Owner of Reds Also Announces Outright Purchase of Heilmann

Cincinnati—(AP)—The first step to rebuild the Cincinnati Reds for the 1930 pennant race was taken Tuesday by Sidney Weil, the club's new president, who announced Dan Howley, recent St. Louis Browns manager, would pilot the team next year and that Harry Heilmann, hard hitting Detroit outfielder, had been purchased outright from the Tigers.

Howley succeeds Jack Hendricks, leader of the Reds since 1924. He has had three years' managerial experience in the major leagues, all with the Browns. His team finished fourth in the American league this year, while the Reds landed in seventh position.

Well secured the controlling stock of the Reds less than a month ago and immediately announced he would make the club more than a factor in next year's flag chase. He said he would trade all but three of the present roster, if necessary to improve the team. The three were Capt. Hugh Critz, second baseman, Red Lucas, pitcher, and Evar Swanson, first baseman.

Acquisition of Heilmann, former leading batter of the American league, was made. Well said, at Howley's suggestion.

Well said Connie Mack, leader of the new world's champions, wanted to add Heilmann to his array of sluggers, but finally waived on him. Well completed the deal Tuesday over long distance telephone.

The purchase price was not announced.

TACKLES FORM BACKBONE Success of any football team rests on the tackles, says Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach, who has Woodworth, 135 pounds; Marvill, 250 pounds; Riley, 220 pounds; Vandenberg, 185 pounds; and Binder, 175 pounds. They're all sophomores, too.

MINNESOTA GRID STARS TO INVADE GREEN BAY SUNDAY

Minneapolis Red Jackets Boast Joestings, Haycraft and Nydahl

Green Bay—Herb Joesting's Minneapolis Red Jackets coming here Sunday for the Packers last game on the home field this season, will be fresh from victory over the Chicago Cardinals, and according to all reports a much stronger team than that which lost to the Chicago Bears in their opening game.

The big northerners have been building up a strong aggregation, and getting their machine into shape in three games, two against the Bears and one against the Cardinals. They trounced the Cardinals handily last Sunday, but were handed shade margin defeats by the Bears. Relative scores mean nothing so the Packers are preparing for a stiff contest for their last at home game. The Cardinals were a tougher package for the Packers than were the Bears, so there is nothing to be gained by the outcome of the contest Sunday on the basis of previous winnings.

JOESTING, HAYCRAFT, NYDAHL Herb Joesting, all-American fullback at Minnesota in 1926 and 1927, has with him Kenneth Haycraft, all-American end at Minnesota team, 1928, he was on the second all-American team in 1927, and on the all-conference and all-Western selections in the year. Melly Nydahl, also from Minnesota, was in all western choice for halfback in 1926 and 1927. These three men are the outstanding figures in the Red Jacket organization, but there are many others whose fame on the gridiron is only slightly less.

Lloyd Young, of Macalester college, was all Minnesota tackle, during his college days, and the same honors were won by Vince center, St. Mary's, Tony Mellich, tackle, also of St. Mary's.

Chester Widelquist, was all Eastern, and second all-American tackle, at Washington and Jefferson in 1925. Since that time he has polished off his education with the Chicago Cardinals and Rocky Island Independents.

St. Thomas and Marquette won all Western mention at tackle in 1925. While Wilbur Lundell was all-Minnesota end at Gustavus Adolphus, in 1927. Henry Willigalle was all midwestern fullback at Carleton college in 1926 and 1927.

RUBE URSELLA IS VETERAN Rube Ursella is perhaps the best known quarterback in the profession. He has played with the Minneapolis Maroons and any number of other clubs in the National league.

Tickets have been placed on sale around town and a brisk demand is reported. Some out of town business has already been marked up.

The Packers ticket office in The Press-Gazette building will be reopened on Wednesday to handle the calls for reservations during the remainder of the week.

Prepare For Game

Minneapolis—After a coming through with a victory over the Chicago Cardinals, Herb Joesting and his Minneapolis Red Jackets are pointing their efforts this week to the game with the Green Bay Packers Sunday.

Joesting, Nydahl, Haycraft and all the rest of the local trouper have heard tremendous tales of the prowess of the Packers and they think that with a fair break in the luck and some smart playing they can win out. They have high hopes of being the first club to crash into the Green Bay perfect record.

Members of the Chicago Bears told the Red Jackets plenty here a week ago Sunday about the power and drive of the Packers. Then, along came the Cardinals to town and what they had to tell didn't help in the least the peace of mind of the hired hands of the Owatonna Thunder Bolt.

While the Jackets have lost twice to the Bears, local fans think that both contests should have gone to Minneapolis. The 7-6 game in particular was a horseshoe contest for the Chicago outfit and Lady Luck seemed to have been the twelfth player on the Grange machine.

Break after break went against the home club and the Chicago touchdown was something that the insurance policies might term "an act of God." In his college career Molly Nydahl was credited with only 6 fumbles—a fair record for three years. But his fumble close to his

Thisty Revamps His Plan Of Attack For Notre Dame Game Saturday At Chicago

Faces Peculiar Task Because Leib, Irish Mentor, Was Formerly at U.

MADISON—Glenn Thistlethwaite, coach of the University of Wisconsin football squad, faces a peculiar situation in preparing his team for the Notre Dame contest at Soldiers' Field, Chicago, next Saturday, in that Tom Lieb, assistant to Knute Rockne, knows Badger plays, formations and characteristics of the players.

Lieb was line coach at Wisconsin under the Thistlethwaite regime for two years before he left last winter to return to his Alma Mater. He knows what to expect from Wisconsin in nearly every situation.

Thistlethwaite feels that it would be impracticable to change his entire style for the one game, but is attempting to vary the attack enough to trouble the Irish. Freshman coach Guy Sundt, who scouted Notre Dame against the Navy at Baltimore last Saturday, returned with the information that the Irish "had everything." He went into more details with other members of the coaching staff and later this week will send the yearlings using Notre Dame plays into a scrimmage or two with the varsity.

While the varsity squad is drilling for Notre Dame, Coach Irv Uteritz is sending his "B" team through its Illinois reserves at Camp Randall Saturday afternoon.

Illinois won the conference "B" team championship last season and according to reports from Champaign, has an abundance of material on hand this season. The Badger reserves defeated Stevens Point Normal, 33-0, in their first start and followed it up with a 6-0 win at Michigan last Saturday.

Against the Wolverines Wisconsin piled up 14 downs to 2 and exhibited a well balanced line featured by the play of Harry Hansen at center, Augie Backus and Chick Frisch at guards and Mark Catlin and Mirko Lubratovich at ends. In the backfield Willard Anderson and Larry Neupert were consistently good.

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—Knute Rockne is convinced his 1929 football team is alert above all things. Because of his ailing leg, Rockne directed his team in practice yesterday from an automobile and by means of a radio amplifier. The varsity was stopping Wisconsin plays consistently so he called his assistant, Tom Lieb, and whispered a complicated Badger formation.

The reserves tried it and so completely did the varsity halt it that Rockne was mystified. Later, he discovered the reason.

The whispered conversation boomed out so loudly the players heard and memorized it yards away. For later whisperings the amplifier was turned off.

STILL WORK TOGETHER Jeff Cravath, former Southern California fullback, and Field Thompson, a backfield mate at the same time, are head coach and backfield coach, respectively, at Denver University.

MARQUETTE DRILLS HARD FOR ANNUAL HOMECOMING GAME

Will Play Iowa State Friday Night in a "Starlight Game"

MILWAUKEE—Marquette university's 9 to 7 defeat at the hands of Grinnell on Saturday will be a lesson, a costly lesson, to the Golden Avalanche gridders and is expected to bring about a highly improved type of play. Coach Frank J. Murray says his eleven out against Iowa State of Ames in the "starlight game" here Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Although Ames defeated Grinnell, 21 to 7, and Grinnell promptly turned around and beat Marquette, hopes are high in the local camp and enthusiasts believe that the Murraymen will have a good chance to win their homecoming battle.

Many weaknesses cropped out in the Grinnell game, in contrast to the excellent showing against Lawrence the previous week. Most of them are weaknesses that can be corrected, however, and that is why the Murraymen look for an improved showing in the game beneath the floodlights. The disaster of Saturday pointed out as obvious just what Coach Murray has said would be his difficulty all along—the selection of a versatile backfield combination.

Marquette's line play against the Pioneers was brilliant on defense, but left something to be desired on offense. The offensive problem in the backfield will be to build up interference for the backs, particularly for the speedy John Sisk who continues as the Hilltoppers' big ground gainer. Sisk, a sophomore, still has a lot to learn but he should be the most dependable ball-carrier this fall.

RADICK LOOKED GOOD
Most pleasing of Marquette's showing against the Kellen was the work of Co-Capt. Ken Radick, Green Bay, Wis., at right tackle. When better tackled, he built Coach Murray wants to know about it. The Green Bay husky, in spite of his 208 pounds, was the first man down the field on every punt, he broke through repeatedly to the opposing secondaries, made ferocious tackles, did some neat blocking and opened up holes for his own backfield men. Radick rates as just about the finest tackle who has ever worn the blue and gold of Marquette. When a line-man can win the admiration of those hundreds of fans who usually watch only the man with the ball, he has achieved success. Meet Mr. Radick.

The Marquette-Iowa State game, Friday night, will be the third meeting between these two teams. The Avalanche was victorious in 1927, 31 to 0, and last year eked out a 6 to 0 victory. The Ames gridders have yet to win from the Hilltoppers, but believe their chance has come this fall. Marquette scouts report that the invaders will be strong on the line and in the backfield, and that they will put the local eleven to a supreme test.

Night workouts this week have found the Murraymen drilling against Iowa State plays as demonstrated by the freshmen.

The Racine American Legion drum corps, world-famous, will give a drill on the gridiron between halves of the game.

PITCHING RECORD
Smoky Joe Wood won 34 games and lost five for a mark of .872 to establish the highest winning percentage ever turned in by a major league hurler.

ENGLAND AND U. S. TOO STRONG; NAVY MEET MAY SUCCEED

Believe Other Nations Will Fear to Oppose Combination

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—It is true, of course, that Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald did not spend their hours together working up an Anglo-American alliance.

It is also presumably true that no selfish nationalistic thoughts ever entered the head of either of them. That is, there was no thought that the United States or Great Britain would profit from this epochal meeting out of proportion to the benefits available to all other nations which cared to enter into the spirit of the thing.

It might also be emphasized that the world has seldom seen a man at the head of any government who appeared to be so sincerely concerned with the well-being of all mankind as the laboring prime minister of Great Britain. Or a president of the United States with such a broad vision of the benefits of world-wide co-operation and the stupidity of international hatreds and suspicions.

THEY ARE IDEALISTS
In other words, here were two statesmen who co-ordinated their patriotism with a certain amount of idealistic internationalism and found that these two abstract factors were not incompatible.

Nevertheless, if there are other nations which fail to fall in line with the United States and Great Britain, it is going to be just too bad for them. Naturally enough, the naval arms conference at Geneva blew up when these two predominant naval partners failed to approach an agreement. The same thing would have been true had France and Italy been represented, which they were not.

But if the United States and Great Britain are going to lead off an international parade for reductions of armaments and world peace, any lesser nations which stand on the curb and stick out their tongues are likely to be out of luck. There are few places where their attitude would be popular and, most importantly of all, it would be distinctly unpopular with Uncle Sam and John Bull, both of whose people are enthusiastic over this new order of things.

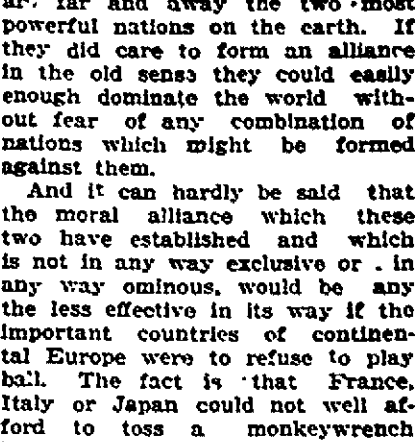

For there is no getting around the fact that America and Britain are far and away the two most powerful nations on the earth. If they did care to form an alliance in the old sense they could easily enough dominate the world without fear of any combination of nations which might be formed against them.

And it can hardly be said that the moral alliance which these two have established and which is not in any way exclusive or in any way ominous, would be any the less effective in its way if the important countries of continental Europe were to refuse to play ball. The fact is that France, Italy or Japan could not well afford to toss a monkeywrench into the Hoover-MacDonald mechanism.

Since MacDonald arrived in this country some distinctly sour notes have been sounded in France. Also some in Italy and even a few in Japan. There are those in each country who scent an alliance.

These doubts and suspicions are not likely to stand in the way for very long. Both the American and British governments will devote themselves to removing them. One excellent reason for the virtual certainty that the other three nations will fall in line—and from an old-fashioned point of view a most important one—is that each one stands

SPAIN, LAND OF THE FANDANGO, LIKES JAZZ

Madrid —(AP)—Three American negro jazz bands breezed down from Paris to try their luck in Spain this summer—the first time that fandango land has had such a visitation. Madrid received them rather well, but some critics warned against "too much jazz."

"Madrid does not want to be made another Paris by this weird musical development from North America, which has engulfed the French capital," one newspaper observed.

American movies dominate the cinemas here; an American bull fighter, Sydney Franklin of Brooklyn, is proving himself a star treading a "book of the month" club has been started. And now with American jazz bands tramping the country, American telephones available almost everywhere, and American radios going like hot cakes, Spain is wondering what Yankee importation will come next.

Stockholm —(AP)—Annual figures on the Swedish mercantile fleet show a gross income of $78,300,000, of which $5.6 per cent was earned in foreign trade. The fleet consists of 2,503 vessels totalling 1,571,000 tons, the capacity being 230,000 tons more than in 1913.

KOOLMOTOR GASOLENE

THE ORIGINAL HIGH-TEST, ANTI-KNOCK GREEN GAS

KOOLMOTOR, the original green gas—is a great gasolene for two reasons.

Reason No. 1—it is highest. This desirable feature gives you instant starting. When you step on your starter, Koolumotor gasolene springs to duty immediately—no waiting—your motor has started. Then, when you step on your accelerator, you move—fast—no faltering or sputtering. Koolumotor is a real high-test gas.

Reason No. 2—Koolumotor gasolene is anti-knock. You go up hills in high with never a trace of a knock. When you slow down on the straightaway or around corners, Koolumotor eliminates unnecessary gear shifting. Koolumotor is a real anti-knock gas.

CITY TO PURCHASE FILL FROM BECKERT

Three Aldermen Wanted to Get Filling from Excavation on Road

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—In a short council meeting at the city hall Tuesday night, discussion centered chiefly around the question of where filling for the retaining wall under construction between St. John's place and Memorial park shall be secured. Discussion arose as to whether material should be taken from Beckert's pit, south of the city, or from the excavation on the Shawano road. Three aldermen favored getting filling from the Rasmussen ditch, the other six councilmen favoring the Beckert pit. It was brought out that filling from the Beckert pit would cost the city five cents a yard, while it could be secured at no cost and with a much shorter haul from Rasmussen's. Those who favored the purchase from Beckert countered that loading would be easier. When brought to a vote it was decided to buy filling from Beckert's.

LOBBYING MUST PAY WELL IN WISCONSIN

Reports of Large and Small Expenditures Made to Secretary

Madison — (AP)—While the United States Senate is probing lobbying, the secretary of state's office in Madison is receiving reports of large and small sums paid lobbyists before the Wisconsin legislature.

"Legislative counsel" as they are more politely termed in Wisconsin laws, made from a few hundred to nearly $2,000 for "handling" one bill or one corporation or group's interest in the legislature.

Theodore Brzauz, prominent Wisconsin Rapids attorney and member of the state bar commission, earned $1,500 as the Nekosa-Edwards Paper Co., representative in the legislative halls. Clarence F. Klockner received $2,788 as salary and expenses in representing the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company.

The Wisconsin Money Lenders Association paid W. J. P. Aberg, Madison's attorney, $2,000 for his services in successfully opposing the bill for law allows an interest rate of 42 per cent on loans up to $500, its opponents claim.

Gardner Withrow, LaCrosse assemblyman, in 1927 and legislative counsel for the railroad brotherhoods, was paid $2,704 for expenses and Henry Maloney, Milwaukee, another railroad brotherhood representative received $1,200 expenses.

Harry Southoff, Madison, former state senator, was paid $800 for representing Trockmorton, and Co., insecticide brokers, $1,000 for representing the Wisconsin Carbon Beverage association, $300 from the Wisconsin Automobile association, and $150 from the General Paper and Supply Co.

Henry F. Tyrell, Milwaukee, another representative of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., received $968 for his legislative services.

OKLAHOMA CROPS ARE FAR BELOW AVERAGE

Okla. City — Reports reaching here indicate that crops of all kinds in the state were slightly below normal because of the bad mid-summer drought. Rains came in time, however, to better quality. There will be plenty of feedstuff for livestock this winter, much of the immature green stuff having been saved in silos. The crop was perhaps hardest hit with present predictions of around 42,456,000 bushels against the five year average of 51,150,000 and the production in 1928 of 70,150,000 bushels.

REPORT BEES IN GOOD CONDITION FOR WINTER

Madison — (AP)—The Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets weekly market letter, just out, says: "Bees in Michigan, Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota are in fine shape for winter, with lots of young bees and ample stores, in spite of the short fall flow. Drones are being killed, indicating a letup of the honey flow. The quality of this year's honey is excellent. Extracting is nearly completed. Some beekeepers report a normal crop, while in other localities a bumper crop has been taken off—the best on record.

ATCHISON BONDS WITH PRIVILEGES ARE ATTRACTIVE

Issue Has Risen Between 60 and 70 Points Since Its Appearance

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York—In October a year ago the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway offered to its common stockholders the right to subscribe at par to an issue of $30,204,000 convertible 4 1/2 per cent debenture bonds maturing December 1, 1948. The ratio was $100 par amount of bonds for each eight shares of common stock held.

Since these bonds were first offered they have sold in the open market between sixty and seventy points above the subscription price which advance is explainable by the conversion option. This is not effective until December 1, 1930, but it has a large value now. Between December 1930 and December 1938 holders of the bonds may convert them into common stock in the ratio of six shares for each $1000 bond or three shares for each $500 bond with adjustment of dividends and interest. This makes the cost of one share of Atchison common to the investor who bought his bond at par approximately $166 and the stock has sold this year in the neighborhood of $300.

Of course what may happen in the market between now and December a year hence no one knows. If Atchison is selling anywhere near its present price at that time the buyer of the bond now will have a large profit. He foregoes any considerable return on his investment meanwhile but that is part of the price he pays for his option. He knows, however, that no matter what may happen to the market his bond could not decline below its investment value. Conceivably the stock might show a much larger loss so that from that point he is taking less risk.

All of this is reflected in the market price of the bond. National banks are buyers of bonds of this kind for the reason that they can thus benefit from advances in the price of stocks which under the law they are permitted to hold.

TWO SIGNIFICANT EVENTS OCCURRED IN RADIO FIELD

Huge New Retail Group and Promised Supreme Court Action Rock Business

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929 by Cons. Press
Washington — Two events of sweeping and fundamental significance in radio occurred Monday. General Motors and the Radio Corporation of America announced the creation of a giant new company in the radio manufacturing field, to maintain retail stores throughout the country.

The supreme court of the United States decided to review the celebrated WGY case, and for the first time will pass upon the constitutionality of those "controversied" provisions of the radio law.

Although bearing upon two wholly different aspects of radio, these two events both separately and collectively affect the basic structures of both the radio industry and radio regulation. Invasion of the radio field by General Motors means that a billion dollar corporation, already in the forefront of automobile and electrical appliance manufacture, will compete directly with the existing set manufacturers, backed by the powerful R. C. A. and its affiliated organizations, the General Electric and Westinghouse.

The supreme court's action is one that has been awaited ever since the radio law was enacted in 1927 and before.

In a joint announcement, Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, and David Sarnoff, executive vice president of R. C. A. disclosed that General Motors proposes to enter the radio business "in a large way."

A new corporation, to be called General Motors Radio Corporation, has been organized, they stated, with a capital stock of $10,000,000 preferred and 1,000,000 common shares of no par value. R. C. A. along with General Electric and Westinghouse will own 49 per cent and General Motors 1 per cent of the stock.

SEES OPPORTUNITY

"Not only do we believe that there is a great opportunity for the development of the radio business as an adjunct to the automobile, but the radio field in general is one that is closely related to the automobile electric appliance business in which General Motors is engaged," said the statement. "The R. C. A. will continue independently as heretofore, both as to the manufacture and distribution of its products, and the General Motors corporation will cooperate to make the new arrangement a success."

It is not disclosed whether the new corporation will distribute its radio products through its existing merchandising outlets, like its automobile salerooms or its electric-refrigerator sales agencies, or whether it is to create a new chain of retail stores. In either case it will obtain national retail distribution, from manufacturer to consumer.

The R. C. A., General Electric and Westinghouse, will contribute $4,900,000 in cash "and grant licenses under all their patents covering radio sound and picture receiving and reproducing sets for use in home and automobile vehicles."

In announcing its willingness to review the WGY case, the supreme court accepted the petition for a writ of certiorari filed by the federal radio commission. The court has a similar organ in her hotel apartment. The yacht is to carry an amphibian plane.

Newark, N. J.—An inventor of ginless gin is going to a joyless jail. Probation agents testified that they seized samples of "pink ladies" served in the roadhouse of Frank Donato at Singac. Analysis revealed that not only did the ladies lack the gin they were supposed to have, but they had no alcohol at all. Frank was sent up for 90 days, however, for selling strong beer.

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin

You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.

Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a teaspoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress. And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than 2c a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Bryan Was Lambasting Trusts 30 Years Ago

BY ALEXANDER GEORGE
In that stirring autumn of '99 when William Jennings Bryan was lambasting the trusts Mr. Jeffries, the California boilermaker, was the modest heavyweight champion of the world. Mrs. Jacob Astor set the stamp of approval on the "horseless carriage."

Mrs. Astor drove out to call on other members of New York's "400" in a "silent" victoria with liveried attendants on the box. It was reported that "her carriage had none of the objectionable buzz so frequently heard in autos."

Soon afterwards Newport had its first automobile parade, which was sponsored by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. Before the start of the parade there was a competitive test of skill in manipulating the autos.

A highway was marked off on the lawn of the Belmont estate and filled with obstacles such as baby carriages with dummy nurses pushing them, clay figures of children playing in the street and wooden horses attached to road straps. The competitors chugged onto the field one at a time and guided their cars around the figures at varying rates of speed.

Terry McGovern, the speedy lightweight, knocked out Pedlar Palmer, the pride of England, after two minutes and 32 seconds of furious fighting at the Westchester Athletic club.

Jane Yatman, a store clerk, rode a bicycle 700 miles in 81 hours. She was in agony the last 25 miles, but attendants kept her pedaling by forcing brandy down her throat, rubbing her with hot alcohol and feeding her a plate of ice cream.

No date has been set for oral argument.

The WGY case, actually tests the validity of the reallocation order of the commission, promulgated last November, and under which the assignments of 34 per cent of the 600 broadcasting stations on the air were jiggled about.

New York—Drinking for sociability's sake is regarded by Dr. Burrill C. Crohn as less serious than "the current abuse of smoking," the one is in fact responsible for only a very exceptional functional gastric disturbance; as to the other, many highly excitable and nervous states are founded upon excessive cigarette consumption, the possible effects of which heartburn, hyperacidity, nervous constipation, insomnia, duodenal and gastric ulcer. CHAPTER 22
VERONICA TALKS

VERONICA put the rudder hard over and steered for the destroyer, and reached him in three minutes. The destroyer had stopped her engines and Veronica made a detour of her and came alongside, keeping a half dozen yards away from the port side. Then her clear voice rang out, in French. "What imbecile fired that shot?"

The conversation so begun was laughable.

It appeared the imbecile was the Lieutenant in command himself. He stood at the gangway and when he realized that the man at Fifth's wheel was a lady, he saluted gallantly, and said:

"It is I, madame."

Veronica went on, in her torrential French:

"You have made a grand mistake, Mr. Lieutenant. You thought you had caught a poacher or a smuggler? On the contrary you have caught two English yachtsmen who've been out in the Channel all night on account of trouble with their engines and are now on the way home. You have a telescope on board, I believe? Did you think it was a good joke to frighten a woman? Look here! I'll give you my father's name and address. You'd better write to him and apologize, or he'll come over and bite you. And I have the honor to wish you good day, sir."

"Pardon, madame—but you have seen our signals."

"Pardon, monsieur, but we have not seen any signals at all."

"You have heard our siren?"

"We have, but we did not know you were talking to us."

"You have put in to the Bay of St. Mitchell?"

"And then?"

"We have seen a man walking ashore near Pontar-Var. One has told us by wireless that he has apparently landed from your boat."

"One has told you a fib. How could a man land from a boat which has not gone near the shore? Your intelligence bureau doesn't function well. Again, I wish you good day, sir. And I counsel you to be more economical of your powder, Adieu!"

Whereupon Veronica switched in her starter and Fiffler moved away, leaving the excellent Lieutenant saying, in a quarter of an hour he was hulled down. In another 10 minutes we had the Channel to ourselves.

We talked of anything but the questions that afflicted my conscience. At last I said:

"When we get back—"

"Andy and Martin you're thinking of?"

"Hardly so much of them as of other curious folks," said I.

"I know. Up to us to talk their curiosity, isn't it? I've got a mother and so've you—both understanding persons. Leave it to them."

And beyond that Veronica would not go. I persuaded her to let me take the wheel while she lay down to rest with one of the rugs around her. I meditated on the night's work.

I had joined in a grotesque escapade which might have alarming results. I had possibly been privy to a crime, an accessory after the fact to a flight from justice. And all because the blue eyes of Veronica had hypnotized me. I literally feared to come out of my trance. With her in this vessel, the muddled ugliness of the things at Blackwater seemed remote.

But we were nearing it again with every revolution of the engine.

"You're a good pal, Tom," Veronica said suddenly.

She threw off the rug and looked through the screen.

"Lugger," said Veronica. "We shall soon raise land. . . . A very good pal."

We did arise land within a quarter of an hour. I carried on at the wheel until we were close enough to identify landmarks. Then Veronica took charge. She seemed to steer straight for a range of cliffs, far higher than the little ones near Blackwater.

"So we aren't going straight home?" I remarked.

"Not yet. We've a call to make."

"Where are we calling?" I asked.

"Silworthy Cove. I'll tell you why. It's possible we shall find there a fast motor boat which was stolen from Blackwater Creek. I happened to see a doubtful-looking person get on board here last night and drift with her down stream with the tide and go round Sandpoint. . . ."

I think my mouth was hanging open by this time.

"Don't look so flabbergasted! You remember that I met you and told you about it. We drove down the coast keeping the boat in view as closely as possible. My mother came with us as a chaperone."

I gasped and Veronica went on.

"The point is that the suspicious person couldn't manage a racing motor-boat and when he put into Silworthy Cove and tried to land he ran her on to the beach on a falling tide. When we had driven to the nearest point and climbed down, however, we found the boat high and dry and the suspicious person gone. It was then long past midnight."

"You had strained your ankle coming down the cliff and could not climb up again. Not knowing the country, we decided to hang till it was light. This morning, having bandaged your foot, we climbed painfully back to the car, drove to the nearest telephone and communicated with Mr. Andrew Royle and asked him to come and take his boat home."

My capacity for thought was exhausted.

"If you can get away with this—I began. "But Mrs. Seabroke?"

"We shall find mother in the old 'bus, I know where. The only question is whether any interfering person will be out so early at Silworthy Cove."

Our adventure came to an end in the placid waters of that extraordinary little notch in the coast known as Silworthy Cove, an almost landlocked pool surrounded by high cliffs with beaches of reddish yellow sand at their foot.

Fiffler went in slowly and almost noiselessly. We looked around. No interfering person spoiled our success. We ran as near a beach as we could with safety. I took Veronica on my shoulder to land. We stopped to tie a handkerchief round my ankle.

"When we get back—"

"Andy and Martin you're thinking of?"

"Hardly so much of them as of other curious folks," said I.

"I know. Up to us to talk their curiosity, isn't it? I've got a mother and so've you—both understanding persons. Leave it to them."

And beyond that Veronica would not go. I persuaded her to let me take the wheel while she lay down to rest with one of the rugs around her. I meditated on the night's work.

CONGREGATION FINDS "ANGEL" OUTSIDE FLOCK

Jay, Okla. (AP)—In Robert Sutherland, wealthy Kansas City lumberman, the congregation of Jay's Immanuel Baptist church has found the answer to its prayers for a new edifice.

Sutherland, who recently built a palatial country home near Jay, learned that the church building program was on the verge of abandonment due to lack of funds. He asked the building committee for an itemized statement of the cost.

A few days later, his workmen were busy building the much-needed church. Although not a member of the church, Sutherland donated new pews, song books and almost every item needed to furnish the building.

U. S. FARM BOARD WATCHES CANADA'S FIGHT OVER WHEAT

Northern Cooperatives in Deadlock Over Prices With European Buyers

BY J. C. BOYLE

Copyright, 1929, by Conn. Press
New York.—Now that the appointment to the federal farm board have been approved by the senate committee, they are paying increased attention to the situation confronting the Canadian cooperative marketing associations. A similar situation is likely to face them if, as planned, they established a national sales agency which will handle the sales of at least 40 per cent of the wheat crop, as announced by Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the board.

Within the next fortnight or three weeks, the fate of the Canadian farmers' profits will be determined. Today the Canadian cooperative associations are in battle front against the wily and experienced buyers of Europe. The latter are refusing to pay the price demanded for Canadian grain. The Canadian pools contend that grain not only is selling at a price which is not justified but that even higher levels are warranted for wheat of a certain protein content.

STOPS SHIPMENTS
This deadlock between buyers and sellers has resulted in an almost complete stoppage of the wheat movement from the northwest. It has had an adverse effect on business in Canada and incidentally on American trade, since Canada is the best and largest customer of the United States.

The organized farmers of the dominion are presenting a more united front than any farm organization has ever achieved before. The European buyers, on the other hand, are confident they can fill European needs from other Canadian sources until the wheat crops from south of the equator are available. The pools contend that the high protein content wheat of Canada and northwestern United States is necessary for mixing purposes to supplement the lower grade wheat which is being purchased.

If the pools are right and there is a shortage of high grade wheat, the determination of the farmers to hold their wheat will yield them big profits. The European buyers are right, the effect on the whole system of cooperative marketing will be profound. It will provide a test which may well determine the policy and actions of the new farm board in the United States.

The wheat pools in Canada especially in the prairie provinces, have added 120 elevators to their string in Alberta, bringing the total in that province to 438. The capacity of the Vancouver terminal is being doubled this year and with two leased elevators full there is a total of more than 5,000,000 bushels in storage on the Pacific coast of Canada.

IN CONFERENCE

Representatives of the Canadian pools are now conferring in London with J. H. Thomas, member of the labor cabinet in charge of the unemployment dictation. On the proposal that the British government buy Canadian wheat in bulk to be stored in elevators in Great Britain, the building of which would provide work for a large number of men. A proposal that the federal farm board make similar purchases of American wheat found favor in the northwest but apparently not with the board.

However, the board is expected to aid in providing facilities and funds which will enable American farmers to hold their wheat as their cousins across the Canadian line are doing. Never have terminal facilities in Canada and the United States been so clogged with grain. Terminal elevators at Duluth-Superior, Minneapolis, Port Arthur, Fort Williams, Montreal, Vancouver, and the American Atlantic and Pacific ports are filled to overflowing. More than 200 vessels loaded with grain are unable to move since their cargoes have not yet been sold. The Canadian government has in effect a car rationing plan to prevent an embargo. The American grain elevators, according to the department of agriculture, are filled almost to the limit and farm storage is taxed.

Diversification of crops has enabled the American farmer to get in a fair amount of cash and has cut down any possible losses, but the Canadian growers are likely to be hard hit as the yield is less than half that of 1928, or about 215,000,000 bushels of which 150,000,000 will be available for export. Careful Canadian statisticians place Canadian farm income at $298,000,000 or $170,000,000 less than in 1928.

The situation has proved beneficial to the coal producers of the United States. The failure to move vessels loaded with grain has made it impossible for Canada to get shipments of British coal, which usually form the return cargoes of the grain ships. This has forced an increase in American coal shipments to the dominion.

OPINION SOUGHT ON NEW BANKING CHAIN

Madison.—(P)—The securities division of the Wisconsin railroad commission has requested an opinion from Attorney General John V. Reynolds as to whether the Wisconsin Bankshares corporation, the holding company that is being organized in Milwaukee to merge several Wisconsin banks, need have its stock issue approved by the securities division. Officials of banks that have voted to enter the chain met in Milwaukee two weeks ago to lay the groundwork for perfecting the holding company's organization. No application for a domestic corporation charter has been made to the secretary of state and no application has been made to the securities division for approval of its proposed $100,000,000 or $125,000,000 stock issue.

WISCONSIN CROPS IMPROVE LITTLE DURING SEPTEMBER

Dry Weather Continues Throughout Greater Part of State

Madison.—(P)—Wisconsin crops showed "relatively" little improvement during September, the state and federal bureau of crop and livestock reporting announced today. Dry weather in most of the state was given as the reason.

A frost just after the middle of the month did some damage to potatoes and corn, though in much of the state it was not severe. "The potato estimate for the state is further reduced, the report said. The present production outlook is for a crop just a little over 30 million bushels, the lowest since 1916. Last year's production exceeded 31 million bushels. Reports generally indicate an unusually low yield throughout the state. Much of the crop is running to small sizes and the market has been active.

For the United States as a whole the potato crop is now estimated at 345 million as compared with 463 million last year. "Corn production for the state is now estimated at a little over 80 million bushels, as compared with 91 million last year and a five year average of over 76 million bushels, "the October report said. "The crop improved somewhat both in this state and others. About half of Wisconsin's crop goes into silos and silo filling is practically completed. "Last reports on oats and barley indicate that the production of both of these grains will fall considerably below a year ago. The average yield of oats is now estimated at 34.5 bushels and the production of 85 million bushels compares with 108 million bushels last year. Our barley production likewise is well under a year ago. This year's yield is estimated at 32.5 bushels per acre as compared with a little over 23 million bushels is compared with nearly 27 million bushels last year. The quality of barley is very satisfactory though much of the oats grown this year is reported to be light.

"Buchweizen production in the state is 100,000 bushels below last year's. The production this year is estimated to be 312,000 bushels. The frost on September 18 injured many buckwheat fields. "Late yield figures on hay indicate that the average production of tame hay is 2.15 tons per acre this year as compared with 1.53 last year. Total production for the state is estimated at 7,708,000 tons, a new record for Wisconsin. "Tobacco production was considerably reduced by dry weather. The estimate total for the state is now 41 million pounds as compared with about 49 million last year with the same acreage."

BARB ARGUMENTS ON RELIGION AND RACE IN ADERHOLT TRIAL

Gastonia Murder Hearing Draws Near Close in North Carolina Region

Charlotte, N. C.—(P)—Arguments before the jury of questions pertaining to race, religion or race were barred from the trial of seven textile union members charged with second degree murder in connection with the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police, as it turned today apparently into its final stages.

After a 20-year-old New York girl, a defense witness, had been cross-examined as to her religious and governmental beliefs, Judge M. V. Barnhill said that he would not permit such questions to be argued. He added that alleged belief in racial equality by certain of the defendants should not be touched upon.

His warnings came after Edith Sanders Miller, wife of Clarence Miller, Communist educator and one of the defendants, had concluded her testimony.

Three of the defendants, Fred Beal, George Carter and K. V. Hendricks, testified regarding events the night of June 7 when Aderholt was wounded fatally in a clash with strikers at Gastonia. Each denied any knowledge of the shooting. Then the defense announced it probably would rest today.

J. Frank Flowers, chief of defense counsel, said the other defendants, Clarence Miller, William McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin and Joseph Harrison would not be called to the stand. Mrs. Miller in her direct testimony related that her husband and Fred Beal were both in National Textile Workers union headquarters at Gastonia with her the night Aderholt was shot and that neither had a gun. Beal previously had given similar testimony.

On its plea that it would seek to impeach her testimony Judge Barnhill permitted the prosecution to question her about her religious beliefs and her work as a teacher in a union school she conducted for the strikers' children.

Declaring she did not believe in a supreme being who "rewards us for virtue and punishes us for sin," Mrs. Miller on questioning admitted she regarded her oath as a witness, taken on the Bible, no more binding than it "taken on the almanac."

The jury is composed of four Methodists, four Baptists, three Presbyterians and one non-church member. Mrs. Miller related that among other things she taught the Gastonia children that what was needed in the United States was a government of workers and farmers "like that in Russia."

EXTEND USE OF STATE PARKS TO BOY SCOUTS

Madison.—(P)—Extended use of Wisconsin state parks by boy scouts was planned at a conference this week between representatives of the conservation commission and scout executives from eight Wisconsin districts.

Commissioner Haskell Noyes of Milwaukee said the conservation commission was anxious to interest the scouts in using the state parks and all conservation commission land, "for two reasons—to make them conservation-minded and to help the commission."

Last summer the first cooperative work started a twenty-year program. Thirty-two eagle scouts made up a trail-building camp in Northern Forest Park during the last two weeks of August. Under the direction of scout executives and forest rangers each worked a certain number of hours daily in building a trail, five miles, badly needed in the park being built.

The trails are valuable to the state because, in case of fire, they serve as fire breaks and afford means of transporting fire protection equipment.

The scout executive were invited by Commissioner Noyes and C. L. Harrington, superintendent of parks, to make more general use of the state parks for permanent camps.

UTILITY AND STEEL ISSUES LEAD N. Y. STOCKS DOWNWARD

Some Recoveries Made in Last Hour Through Leadership of Oils

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York.—The "secondary reaction," which started yesterday, was resumed today, with the steel and public utilities again feeling the brunt of selling pressure. Extreme declines in many of the active issues ranged from 3 to 15 points but these partially offset a decline in the railroads and a recovery in the oil stocks.

Short selling was again an important factor in the day's decline. Many small traders apparently followed the advice of leading commission houses in reducing long commitments or restricting new purchases to a few special issues in which favorable developments are pending until the course of the markets becomes clearer.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent, which is expected to be maintained all day, but time money rates held steady.

While the action of the Massachusetts Public Utilities commission in denying an application of a Boston company to split up its common has no direct effect on any securities, the nature of the commission's decision has had a bad psychological effect on all high priced public utility stocks.

Pacific Telephone broke 15 points, American & Foreign Power 9, Standard Gas & Electric 7 3/4, American Water Works 7, Consolidated Gas 6 and American Telephone, American Power & Light, Stone & Webster, North American, Columbia Gas, General Public Service, and Southern California Edison sold off 4 to 5 1/2 points.

Crude oil production showed a drop of nearly 500,000 barrels in the daily average, last week. This was reflected in a better demand for the oil shares, Sun Oil moving up 4 points to a new high at 84 1/2, while Standard Oil of New Jersey and California, Houston and Royal Dutch advanced 2 points or more.

Weekly steel trade reviews stressed the falling off in output, due largely to reduced automotive demands. Iron and steel points at the steel shipments are now the lowest in 18 months. U. S. Steel common was hammered down more than 5 points to below 32 1/2, while A. M. Byers dropped 5 and several others yielded a point or more.

Directors of Vanadium stock declared an extra dividend of $1 a share.

Columbian Carbon fell 14 1/2 points, Auburn Auto 10 1/2, Westinghouse Electric 10 1/2, and Westinghouse Electric, John Manville, American Tobacco, and Crosley Radio sagged 5 points or more, the last named touching a new low level for the year.

Rails turned heavy with the industrial on the announcement that freight car loadings in the week ended Oct. 5 fell below the corresponding period last year for the first time since March, and only the Chesapeake & Ohio, which ran up 3 1/2 points at the opening to 170 1/2, on the announcement of the stock split up, fell back to 25 1/2.

Even the few isolated strong spots were wiped out in the final hour, when the reaction became general. The handful of shares that had earlier surrendered their gains, as U. S. Steel was hammered down by about 8 points to a new low for the movement at 125 1/2, Auburn Auto broke 20 points, Western Union 15, and such shares as General Electric, Columbia Carbon, Columbia Gas, American Telephone, American Water Works, Westinghouse Electric, American Tobacco, 7 to 12. The close was a total sales approximately 4,000,000 shares.

SELLERS MANAGE TO KEEP PRICES STEADY

21,000 Receipts; 4,000 Direct to Packers; Market Holds

Chicago.—(AP)—Sellers strained every effort to hold hog prices steady as developments during the first hour of the session favored them. Offerings of 21,000 carried 4,000 direct to packers and there was a state holdover contingency of 5,000. Prices were quoted fully steady on good to choice hogs which moved early within a narrow range of $9.85 and many loads were held at $10.00.

Cattle receipts were not excessive but sufficient stock of all classes was on hand to enable buyers to consult their own convenience in beginning their operations. No direct receipts and few westerns were included in the fresh supply of 13,000. Generally steady prices were quoted.

Sheep received 4,400 lambs on direct billing out of the fresh run of 21,000 sheep. The three-day total of 68,000 shows an increase of 10,000 over the same period last week but is 13,000 lighter than the supply reported here during the corresponding three days in 1928. A weak undertone ruled the early trade.

HEAVY SELLING IS RESPONSIBLE FOR LOWERING OF WHEAT

Speculators on Alert and Enlarge Downward Movement as It Starts

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago.—(AP)—Big letting go of future delivery holdings of wheat carried wheat values sharply downward here today, especially in the late dealings. Speculative selling on the part of traders looking for lower prices tended further to bring about wheat market tumbles. A notable unsettling influence was an estimate that stocks of wheat at European ports now aggregate 40,000,000 bu., and that trans-Atlantic buying of wheat is relatively insignificant, to-day's purchases being figured at 200,000 bu., exclusive of Pacific coast business with the orient.

General improvement of crop conditions in the main domestic winter wheat belt was announced today by the government weekly report, and this circumstance did much to promote an increased selling movement in the wheat future delivery market here. Special notice was taken that sections which had previously been dry were stated to have received ample moisture. Unlooked for weakness on the Liverpool wheat market tended further to accelerate price downturns in Chicago and so too did execution of numerous standing orders here to stop holders' losses at various fixed limits.

Exporters meanwhile noted a somewhat better inquiry today for wheat, but foreign demand taken for a whole appeared to be still of a limited sort. Some business in United States wheat afloat was said to have been done at about a replacement basis. Canadian exporters were also reported as having made fair sales of low-grade wheat to Europe, and more or less Pacific coast wheat was also said to have been disposed of the orient.

SENTIMENT SEEN FOR GOVERNMENT SHIP BUILDING

When W. B. Shearer Spilled
the Beans, He Started Something

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—One of the least comforting thoughts that the shipbuilders who hired Mr. William Baldwin Shearer are getting out of the public scandal created by Mr. Shearer's spilling of the beans is that there is likely to result an increased sentiment for government building of American warships.

As long as shipbuilders and munition makers can make a profit from war and from armaments, it is being argued, they will be tempted to maintain lobbies which, if they do not actually foment war or attempt to thwart peace efforts, are likely to attempt to oppose any armament reductions.

A substantial number of cruisers, battleships, destroyers and submarines is still sure to be built. Even if we were not to add to our cruiser strength as a result of recent naval negotiations with England, our naval vessels become obsolete and must be replaced.

MANY SHIPS BEING BUILT
Thirteen cruisers are now under construction. These include five of the 15-cruiser program passed by congress, construction on three of which was recently halted by President Hoover as a peaceful gesture.

Of these cruisers six are being built in our own navy yards—two each at the navy's yards in New York, Puget Sound and Philadelphia. The other seven are being constructed by the same three private companies which hired Mr. William Baldwin Shearer and sent him to Geneva. The American Brown Boveri Electric Company is making three of them at Camden, N. J., Mr. Charles M. Schwab's Bethlehem company has two at its yards in Fore River, Mass., and the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Company is making the other two at Newport News, Va.

The 15-cruiser bill stipulated that eight of the new war vessels should be built in navy yards and the other seven at private yards.

Contracts are awarded by the secretary of the navy on the basis of sealed bids. The lowest bidder receives preference, but such factors as the bidder's reputation, required time, facilities and labor situations are also taken into consideration. It is ordinarily cheaper for the government to make its own war vessels in its own yards, but as long as congress stipulates that a certain number shall be constructed in private shipyards the latter have no competitive building from the navy yards.

Cruisers now under private construction appear to have been as evenly divided as possible between the three companies named as his employers in Mr. William Baldwin Shearer's suit. It may or may not be more or less significant of something or other that they combined to hire Mr. William Baldwin Shearer. Construction of the remaining ten cruisers of the current program remains to be started. The assumption here is that the program will be completed in order to establish cruiser parity with Great Britain and that there will soon be more new cruisers needed for replacements.

SPRISTER IS OFFICER OF RETAIL MEAT GROUP

Milwaukee—(P)—Nick Bouchette, Oshkosh, will head the Wisconsin State Association of Retail Meat Dealers during the next year.

Bouchette was elected president of the association at the closing session of the twelfth annual convention here Monday night. Milwaukee was awarded the 1930 convention. Other officers elected are: Vice presidents: Jacob Gaiser, Racine; A. F. Johnson, Fond du Lac; Julius Miller, Wausau; Herman Tiedjens, New Holstein; Walter Miller, Stevens Point; H. L. Wicker, Oshkosh, was re-elected secretary, and James Dilley, Fond du Lac, was named financial secretary. Otto Sprister, Appleton, was chosen treasurer; Henry Gust, Eau Claire, Sergeant at arms; William Elger, Waukesha, inner guard, and Arthur Tecklow, outer guard.

According to a dispatch from Toronto, a statement from the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor in this connection said that: "The cold truth is that Hoover has thrown into the ring the biggest single 'big navy' threat since the days of Theodore Roosevelt, barring the World War period."

Plenty of sentiment can be found on Capitol Hill for the construction of all new navy ships in navy yards. Of course, in the past this sentiment has burned hottest in the hearts of members of Congress with navy yards in their own districts, just as the private shipbuilders are favored by those with private shipyards in their districts, but the recent disclosures have strengthened the navy yard faction.

EXHIBITANT PROFITS CHARGED
In the expected fight on the issue the navy yard advocates are likely to make much of the government's suit mentioned in the Shearer hearing, in which it is charged that the Bethlehem company made upward of $10,000,000 in "unreasonable and unconscionable profits" on government shipbuilding contracts during the war.

Congress has been urged to cancel all contracts with private yards in an editorial in Labor, national weekly newspaper published by the standard railway labor brotherhoods, which attacks the spectacle of "the shipbuilding interests helping to stop the march toward world peace for the sake of contracts to build ships."

Building all warships in government plants, it says, "would end the sinister, selfish influence which the lobby exerts on naval policy, and at the same time save the government a deal of money."

Shortage of labor is delaying the remodeling of fortifications on the French frontier.

ASKS "JUSTICE" FOR RAILROAD CARRIERS

Association Head Says U. S.
Enters Competitive Transportation

St. Louis—(P)—"Even-handed justice" is sought by the railroads in the competition between the facilities of the rail carriers and inland waterway operation. R. H. Ashton, president of the American Railway Association, said in an address before the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, meeting here Tuesday. He declared the railroads are not opposed to the development of inland waterway transportation if "economically justified," but they are opposed to the federal government entering into competitive transportation operation with them. Ashton named three things objected to by the railroads: first, the government entering into competition; second, where the competitor is relieved from important items of operating costs; and lastly to the method of making rates by the government barge line operation. "There is, for example, a 20 per cent reduction from the corresponding rail rate given the shipper by the barge line," Ashton said. "This is well and good if the barge line absorbs all of the differential in rate, but when it seeks and obtains such a division of rates as will compel the rail carriers interchanging traffic with it to absorb a part of that differential, it becomes an unfair situation."

He declared "it should be clearly noted that the rail carriers are now making an earnest effort to adjust themselves to actual operations to the inland waterway policy of congress and have adopted and are now employing to that end practices of substantial cooperation."

"If and when competitive conditions are made fair and equitable, the rail carriers will be found cooperating with any operation upon the inland waterways and willing to take their chances on an evenhanded basis with any competition that may arise. They expect to offer competition on a fair basis. They demand that their competitors shall likewise be fair and just."

THE FOLLY OF FAT

PROVED FOR 22 YEARS—AND TO MANY

CONSIDER the fact that countless people, for many years, have been fighting fat in the modern way. No abnormal exercise or diet to bring harm.

Note the results you see everywhere. Slender figures now prevail. Excess fat is the exception. New youth and beauty, new health and vigor, have come to multitudes in the easy, pleasant, right way.

One great reason is a discovery that science made some years ago. It was found that most fat people had an under-active gland. That gland largely controls nutrition, and its weakness leads to fat.

Modern physicians, since that discovery, have applied a new treatment to obesity. They have fed the lacking substance.

Marmola prescription tablets, prepared by a famous laboratory, contain the factors they employ. So this effective and right method is at everyone's command.

Marmola has been used for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results until Marmola now stands alone. A book in each box gives the formula and explains the reasons for results. So users know what they are taking and why the good effects appear.

Is it not folly to stay fat when so many have found an easy way to slender, normal figures? And the right way. Go try the method they employed. Watch the results from a box or two of Marmola, then decide for yourself what it means. A right condition means much to you. Go start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.
